Two Japanese Destroyers Sunk by Allied Bombers

Third Warship Damaged during Battle at Buna

Enemy Fails in Effort To Relieve Tottering Defenders

Ships Destroyed Believed To Have Been Loaded with Troops

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Thursday, Nov. 26 (AP)—Allied bombers sank two Jap destroyers and damaged a third during futile enemy attempts to relieve their tottering defenders of Buna, in northeast New Guinea, the high command announced today.

This naval blow was struck while fiercest close contact fighting raged for the coastal base of Buna whose outskirts forward elements of the Allies entered nearly a week ago.

Today's communique told of the Australians and Americans moving upon carefully prepared positions which included dugouts and barbed wire.

Buna Well Fortified

The Japs have set up at Buna "all the defensive attributes of a fortress," Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command stated.

Low, tropical jungles, interspersed with swamp and tidal creek, added to the difficulties of the fighting. Enemy and Allied Air forces were in constant action.

Enemy naval forces were shattered and repulsed last night in attempts to land reinforcements under cover of darkness to aid their beleaguered garrison, now pinned against the sea in a thin twelve mile

Five Machine Guns Captured in Jungles of Guadalcanal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—A marine patrol knifing deep into the mountainous jungles on Guadalcanal island has killed seventy Japanese and captured five machine guns at a loss of only two men wounded, the Navy announced today.

The enemy troops were caught in an encampment at the village of Mambulo on the upper Matanikau river, beyond the southwestern flank of the American position on the Solomon island.

From somewhere on these jungle-covered heights the Japanese have

Henderson Reported as Accusing Packing Firm of Using Pressure

BALTIMORE, Nov. 25. (AP)—The Baltimore Evening Sun said today that Leon Henderson, director of the Office of Price Administration, had accused the Fox Packing Company of Baltimore of using pressure on him to modify meat rationing order so as to increase the company's quota.

Meat packers interests and Baltimore independent grocers complained to Senator Tydings (D-Md), the paper said, that the OPA had refused to increase the meat quota despite an increase of approximately 250,000 in the city's population and Tydings relayed the complaints to Henderson.

Henderson's reply charged that the Fox Packing company "has used pressure from every conceivable source to cause us to change our course, but we still feel that safeguarding the requirements of our armed forces is paramount."

The Evening Sun added that Henderson informed Tydings "the meat restriction order limits the total volume of meat that may be delivered to civilians in order to assure an adequate supply for our armed forces and fighting allies.

"The order does not provide for allocations of available civilian supply among different areas or individual customers."

Henderson also said that "the packing industry retains the responsibility of effecting an equitable distribution. The packers are being urged to increase their shipments to areas where populations have increased and to reduce shipments to others."

He also commented that a very few packing companies, including the Fox concern, "have at this date slaughtered most of their quota for this period and the period is now only half over."

Goebbels, Worried, Asserts War Is Life or Death Struggle for Nazis

Propaganda Minister Alarmed over Successes of the Allies

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—A revealing article by German Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels broadcast by the Berlin radio tonight indicates that the German people are being swayed by Allied propaganda and are concerned about the German reverses.

Furthermore, throughout the article is the strong suggestion that the Nazi leaders are gravely worried about German morale.

In one of the frankest articles Goebbels has yet written in the weekly publication Das Reich, the propaganda minister has told the Germans that they must try to surpass the enemy not only in gaining victories "but also in the art of mastering reverses."

"Obstacles on the road to victory only heighten our spirit of attack and occasional reverses encourage up to fresh achievements," he said.

Seems Greatly Worried

The German propaganda minister has not seemed so concerned in any one matter since his speculative articles on the second front last summer when he boasted to the world that Germany was ready everywhere — no matter where the Allies might strike.

At the outset of his discourse, he said:

"It is he who approaches his objective never looking to the left or right and justifying his actions by their success rather than by morals who has the advantage in war."

Obviously concerned about the effect the Allied cause and perhaps Allied war aims are having on the German people, Goebbels propounded in the frankest terms a modern day "might makes right" theory:

"It is not so much a matter of

GETS HOSPITAL AWARD

Baltimore Wants Phils' Franchise

Group of Sportsmen May Bring League Team to City

BALTIMORE, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Baltimore Sun said tonight that several groups of sportsmen in the city were seeking to buy the National League franchise of the Philadelphia Phils.

One group headed by Sterling Wilson Klein has formulated tentative plans to raise money by a subscription campaign to purchase the Phils' franchise. Klein and other members of the group will meet with Mayor Howard W. Jackson Saturday morning to discuss ways of furthering the campaign.

The Sun said, however, that another group interested in moving of franchise to Baltimore involved "out of town people of national repute." Their identity was not disclosed.

"This group represents big cash money, bales of it in fact," the Sun said. "They have contacted the Philadelphia situation and know exactly what the Phil franchise can be had for. The exact figure is not so important as is the fact that it is satisfactory to these interests."

The paper added that no such sale could be consummated before an agreement had been reached with Mrs. Jack Dunn, owner of the Baltimore Orioles of the International League.

The National League about two weeks ago recommended the sale of the Phils' franchise.

Nation Observes Thanksgiving as Soldiers Battle

Plenty of Money Available, but Not Much To Buy of Some Foods

[By The Associated Press]

America observes its first wartime Thanksgiving in twenty-five years today with swollen pocketbooks and shrinking larders.

For the first time in years, many with the money to buy were unable to get the traditional turkey and some of the "fixin's" because of local shortages due to the war emergency.

Flush with war funds, millions crowded food stores throughout the country in a last minute rush to stock up for the holiday. Agriculture officials reported that never before had there been such a demand for food.

Many Shortages Reported

But because of Lend-Lease requirements and the need for supplying hundreds of thousands of troops overseas, there were shortages of meats, poultry, dairy products, eggs and some vegetables. These shortages varied with localities. Some stores instituted their own rationing in order to make available stocks go further.

Missing from many tables will be the after dinner coffee (sales were halted last week as a prelude to rationing) and the piece de resis-

Escaped Roxbury Convicts Blame Food Scarcity

Say They Went Over the Hill Because of Bad Conditions

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 25. (AP)—Two convicts on trial for escaping from the State Penal Farm at Roxbury, six miles south of Hagerstown, today testified in criminal court that they were driven to escape by a scarcity of food and other conditions at the penal farm.

One of them, Harry B. Martin, Jr., told Judge Joseph D. Mish and a jury that he had been assigned with other prisoners to work on a nearby farm, and that when he returned at night he was given "a piece of bologna, a spoonful of tomatoes and a spoonful of potato salad after a hard day's work."

Martin was one of eighteen prisoners who were either convicted or who pleaded guilty to charges of escaping from the farm. All were sentenced by Judge Mish, the new sentences to begin on completion of their present terms.

Placed in Punishment Cell

Martin testified he had been placed in a punishment cell, which was without furnishings, for as long as three days at a time.

He said the prisoners who escaped "were driven off because we were half starved."

The prosecuting witness in all of the jury trials was the penal farm superintendent, Elmer S. Maxwell.

All of the escapes occurred since the May term of court here, or in less than six months' time.

Asks for Jury Trial

Another of the convicts, Frank Fraley, asked for a jury trial at which he represented himself.

He said he had been confined to the "hole" for as long as five days at a time, and given only bread and water. Beefsteak served at the regular prison tables, he said "was like rubber."

Fraley testified he had been given permission to leave the penal farm to visit his family, and said that he was arrested in Brunswick, Md., while returning from that visit.

Maxwell, in rebuttal, denied he had given permission to Fraley to leave the farm, and said he escaped.

The jury which heard his case convicted Fraley of the escape charge after seven minutes' deliberation, and Judge Mish sentenced him to a year in the House of Correction, that term to begin when he has completed his present four-year sentence for burglary. About three years of his original sentence remain to be served.

Martin was also convicted by a jury and sentenced to serve six months in the House of Correction after completion of his present eighteen-month sentence for larceny and forgery.

Plan Housing Survey

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 25. (AP)—The Bureau of Census, department of commerce, has begun a survey of dwelling units in Hagerstown to determine the percentage of available rental vacancies and proportions of occupied and unoccupied dwellings.

The survey was begun on request of the National Housing Agency.

A. & P. Company Is Charged with Illegal Practice

Conspires To Monopolize Trade, Justice Department Declares

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—The government accused the nation's largest food chain today of driving competition out of business through systematic domination of local areas, and drew a reply that every charge would be disproved.

The charges were made in a two-count indictment voted by a federal grand jury at Dallas, Texas, against twelve companies in the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company group; sixteen officials in that group; Business Organization, Inc., and its president, Carl Byoir of New York, public relations representative of the chain.

The prime corporate defendant was the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, Inc., parent of the eleven other companies.

The individuals indicted included George L. Hartford of Montclair, N. J., and John A. Hartford of Westchester County, N. Y., president and first vice president respectively of the top company.

The indictment was announced in Washington, where the investigation had been directed by the justice department's anti-trust division.

Government's Charge

The charge was made that the effect of the alleged conspiracy was to "injure and destroy food manufacturers, processors, canners, wholesalers and thousands of independent retail food dealers; to depress prices paid to growers of fresh fruits, vegetables and other farm crops; and to make it impossible for thousands of non-integrated independents and small chains to remain in competition with the defendants."

Also in Washington, Carl Byoir & Associates replied for the A and P group that the anti-trust division "is now attempting to create further chaos by an attack upon the methods of doing business which have won the greatest approval from consumers, farmers, labor and the great mass of our people."

Denies Monopoly Charge

"Every corner grocer and every housewife in the United States of America knows," the statement said, "that there is no monopoly in the food business. It is the most competitive business in America.

x x x

"It seems now, with food prices at a peak, to be against the public interest to make it possible for those with low incomes to have an extra loaf of bread or another bottle of milk for their children.

"To attack us because of our buying policies is an indictment of the judgment of the hundreds of thousands of farmers who have sought our business because we have been able to obtain for them wider markets and a constantly larger share of the consumers' dollar. To attack us because of our selling policies is to indict the common sense of the millions of housewives who have built our business by their patronage.

"It would appear that these ridiculous and vicious charges have

Waiters and Hatcheck Girls Object To Taking Victory Stamps for Tips

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—Waiters and hatcheck girls in some New York nightclubs and hotels waved a flag of truce today and begged the chivalrous gentlemen of Petersburg, Va., not to go on with their newly-hatched plan of giving war savings stamps instead of cash when tipping.

"Did you ever try stalling off the landlord or the grocer for four or five years?" asked Dorothy Hatton, blonde hatcheck girl at the Hurricane nightclub on Broadway. "Whew—I'd hate to try it."

(A group of Petersburg business and professional men yesterday announced organization of the National Gift Plan Association, which calls for the substitution of war stamps for cash tips to waiters and others who accept honoraiums.)

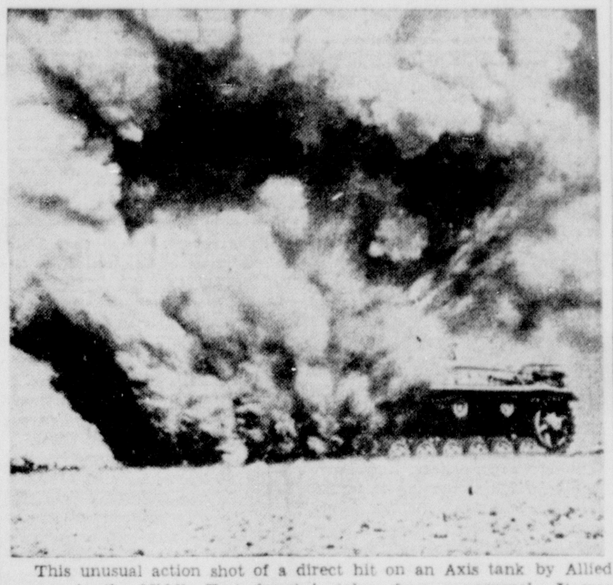

No Lack of Patriotism

It's not a lack of patriotism that caused them to throw cold water on the scheme, waiters explained. Quite the contrary, because all of them, they said, were signed up for ten per cent salary checkoffs in war stamps.

"Waiters get about half of their basic pay in salary," Anthony Mele, proprietor of Ruban Bleu explained.

HIT ON AXIS TANK IN DESERT

This unusual action shot of a direct hit on an Axis tank by Allied gunners in the Middle East desert is taken from a newsreel. It was made as Marshal Rommel's shattered forces retreated before the Allied drive in Libya. British ground troops have reached Agedabia and continue to pursue Axis forces.

AMERICAN AND BRITISH PLANES POUND AXIS FORCES IN TUNISIA

LONDON, Nov. 25. (AP)—The grand Allied assault on Tunis and Bizerte is about to be launched by the force of British Lieut.-Gen. K. A. N. Anderson, the Morocco radio announced tonight, while American and British planes in relays pounded Axis hotbeds over the whole Tunisian battleground.

The Morocco radio declared that Anderson, leader of the British first army and a supporting force of Americans, is on the verge of beginning a large-scale offensive. It said further that his forces had once more thrown back a German column in an engagement twenty-eight miles south of Tunis.

British Army Advancing

The regular communique of the Allied force headquarters in North Africa merely said that "the British first army is making satisfactory progress in operations against the enemy in eastern forward areas."

The communique, devoted mainly to the terrific aerial battering that the combined RAF and U.S. air forces are giving the Axis, said that two successful raids were carried out on Bizerte Monday and Tuesday nights and that U.S. army P-38 fighters of the Fourteenth air force destroyed fourteen enemy planes in Tunisia yesterday.

The fighter bag included, the war report said, seven Italian troop transport planes shot down at Gabes and two Junkers 88 planes destroyed elsewhere in southern Tunisia; four transport planes and one seaplane and a tank destroyed on the airfield at Gabes.

Truman Favors New Committee To Conduct War

Would Have It Control Materials and Manpower for Duration

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. (AP)—Chairman Truman (D-Mo) of the special Senate Defense Investigating committee today endorsed a proposal to centralize control of all materials and civilian manpower in a new office of War Mobilization.

Like Representative Tolan (D-Calif), an earlier witness before a Senate Labor sub-committee which is considering the war mobilization bill, Truman declared battle strategy should be left to the military and production entrusted to a centralized civilian authority.

Truman said he was "highly impressed by the bill's proposal to create a stronger war production board with an executive at the

Russians Occupy River Junction In New Advance

Special Communique Places Dead and Captured at 98,000

Another 140,000 Germans Believed To Have Been Wounded

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Thursday, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Red army striking across the snow-covered Don steppes west of Stalingrad has seized the Don-Chir river junction in a move threatening rapidly to complete the envelopment of the 300,000-man German assault army at Stalingrad.

A special Soviet communique, the fourth in four days, announced also that the Nazi toll in dead and captured now stood at 98,000, and presumably another 140,000 Germans have been wounded in the bloody battle on the Don river bend.

The Russian armies occupied Novomaximovsky and Staromaximovsky at the junction of the Don and Chir rivers, sixty-five miles southwest of Stalingrad, the communique said, without detailing the significance of this advance.

This indicated one of two developments. Either the Russian army which struck across the Don river at Serafimovich on the north side of the bend had penetrated clear across that strategic elbow to the southern side, or that the Red army column driving down the Stalingrad-Novorossisk railroad had turned northward to link up with the upper Soviet army.

Shorter Shirttails And Plain Pajamas Decreed by WPB

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—Shorter shirttails and plainer pajamas for the men were decreed today by the War Production Board to save fabric.

Shirts manufactured after December 15 will be two to three inches shorter, WPB estimated this would result in an annual saving of cotton and other fabrics sufficient to manufacture 10,000,000 additional shirts.

The order also simplifying styles of men's and boys' pajamas will save enough material annually for 200,000 additional pairs, the WPB said.

Merchant Vessel Sunk by U-Boat

Lieutenant Held On Girl's Charge

James B. Nichols of Texas Accused of Attacking 17-Year-Old

BALTIMORE, Nov. 25. (AP)—Judge Eugene O'Dunne today refused to release on bail a 34-year-old army air corps lieutenant accused of raping a 17-year-old Baltimore girl, asserting that his action was "wanton abuse of the finest type of curtesy that could be extended to the men in uniform."

The accused soldier, Lieut. James B. Nichols, stationed at Camp Holabird, has been held for grand jury action on a charge of raping the girl last Saturday night in a downtown hotel after he had met her at a dance for uniformed men.

Brigadier General Asa N. Duncan Reported Missing in Action at Sea

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. (AP)—Brigadier General Asa N. Duncan, chief of air staff in the European theater has been forced down at sea and is missing in action.

The War department reported today that Gen. Duncan, 50, was forced down while flying from England to North Africa on November 17. His plane went into the sea off the northern coast of France. No information, the department said, has been received as to whether any of the personnel in the plane survived.

Duncan, a command pilot and combat observer, was made chief of air staff in the European theater last July. He is the second general of the army air forces listed as missing in action. Maj. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker has been missing since he flew out to bomb the Japanese fleet approaching Midway island last June. Two other generals, Maj. Gen. Herbert A. Dargue and Brig. Gen. Harold H. George, have been killed in airplane accidents since the war started.

Gen. Duncan's wife lives at Montgomery, Ala. He was born at Leighton, Ala., March 30, 1892. His first military service was as an enlisted man in the Alabama military guard on duty on the Mexican border in 1917. He was commissioned in the Alabama National Guard that year and served throughout the World war.

He became a brigadier general last February and was executive officer at the March field air base from 1936 to 1939 and formerly was chief of the personnel division in the office of chief of air corps.

62 State Guard Members Receive Service Ribbons

Company D Has Highest Rating for Drill Attendance

Company D, Maryland State Guard, commanded by Capt. Richard P. Shireman, was officially rated the first company in the state in attendance to drills and formations and in number of re-enlistments.

Company C, commanded by Capt. Thomas F. Conlon, tied with Company B of Hagerstown, commanded by Capt. A. J. Stitelmyer, for second place in the state.

Staff officers from Hagerstown came here last night and presented service ribbons to the men in each company, who have a record of 100 per cent attendance at drill and who have served a year or more with the state guard. The presentations were made by Lt. Col. W. Preston Lane, Jr., who was accompanied by Captain J. V. Jammison III, and Lt. Victor D. Miller, both of Hagerstown and staff officers of the Eighth Battalion.

Following the presentation of the service ribbons, Col. Lane made a brief talk during which he expressed his appreciation for the interest of local guardsmen and minute men. He urged that constant vigil be maintained, that interest be kept at its highest possible point and that the military of the state remain steadfast in its determination to be ready and trained to meet any emergency.

Must Win the Peace

"After the last war," Col. Lane concluded, "this country lost the peace because we thought the shooting was over and everything was fine again. After this war, we must win the peace and preserve the things our comrades are now fighting for. This cannot be done unless we as citizens and soldiers remain faithful and loyal and determined to keep foremost in our minds that war must not come to the next generation or the next. There will probably be criticism if we remain alert and determined, but that must not make any difference. As men, as Americans and as an organization, we must be sure that the peace, after victory is secured, so that the boys who are doing the shooting now will have something worth coming home to."

Col. Lane then presented a special award to Sergt. Herman Heller, who made the highest rifle score in the battalion and tied for high score in the state, while in Camp Ritchie last summer. Sergt. Heller, a former U. S. Marine, went to camp last summer as a private but has since been made a sergeant. He is a member of Company D, and when presented with the medal, was given a rousing ovation by his fellow guardsmen.

Col. Lane said, "You have made a record for the Eighth battalion and have made another first for the growing list of first places your own company has achieved."

Thirty-six to Company

Thirty-six men in Company D were presented with service ribbons as follows: Captain John K. Rozum, medical corps, Fst. Lieut. Anthony J. Monahan, Second Lieut. Lester L. Bolinger, First Sergt. F. Allan Weatherholt, Sergt. John L. Towler, Sergt. Albert H. Pfeiffer, Sergt. John F. Nimick, Sergt. C. Byron Kight and Sergt. Charles C. Wiant.

tance of some pumpkin pie eaters—whipped cream.

The War Production Board issued an order yesterday halting sales of whipping cream in order to conserve fluid milk. The order is effective immediately.

Millions of war workers will observe the day by remaining on the job. This is in response to a plea by War Production Chief Donald Nelson.

Roosevelt Asks Prayers

President Roosevelt asked that the day be observed with prayer and will set the example with special religious services at the White House, to which members of the cabinet, army and navy chiefs, heads of government agencies, supreme court justices, congressional leaders and members of the president's family have been invited.

The chief executive will open the services by reading his Thanksgiving proclamation. The service will be broadcast.

Afterward the president will resume work in the executive offices. Mrs. Roosevelt has announced that the White House will have a traditional turkey dinner, but does not expect any guests.

Although their folks at home may have to forego some of the traditional Thanksgiving food, America's soldiers, sailors and marines in the United States and on the sea and far flung battlefronts will have an old fashioned turkey dinner.

Guadalcanal May Be Short

The Marines and soldiers on Guadalcanal may be an exception. Naval authorities said that every effort was being made to get Thanksgiving supplies into the fighting front there, but if the fortunes of war intervened, the troops would have to get along on regular rations.

In Britain and Northern Ireland, where thousands of American troops are stationed, the British people have made plans to observe Thanksgiving in American fashion to help make Uncle Sam's forces there feel at home.

There will be special services in Westminster Abbey and other historic churches and dances and other functions have been arranged throughout the British Isles.

Turkey will be missing from British dinner tables because it is not available, but many British families will make deep holes in their limited ration allowances in order to provide as festive a board as possible for their guests.

United States army forces, in a reciprocal gesture, have turned over some of the supplies of Turkey they received from the United States to be served in hospitals to the sick and wounded of both countries.

"If the German people immediately yield when their magnanimity and objectivity are appealed to, then this is due to the fact that they lack experience in political affairs and see their opponent as they are themselves, or what is still worse, as they would like to be themselves.

"It will yet take a long time until the idea has taken root in the German people which is a matter of course with the British, that it is not a matter of right or wrong, but of the Fatherland."

He said that the nation's leadership must pursue its course "according to what is useful and may not let itself be shaken in that course by the outcry of public opinion. It must carry on the war and politics from passionate heat . . . leadership must not let itself be knocked over by hypocritical words by the enemy about humaneness. It always does what it has deemed right.

Field dispatches had reported only a thirty-mile gap remained to be closed in the Don elbow to encircle the Nazi Stalingrad armies. These reports preceded the issuance of the latest special communique, which did not give the new mileage rolled up by the Soviet offensive begun Nov. 19.

Besides occupying the new and old cities of Maximorovsky on the Chir-Don rivers, the communique said, six more villages had been taken, the 22nd Nazi tank division had been routed, 15,000 prisoners taken, and 6,000 Nazis killed during yesterday's operations.

This made a total of 47,000 German dead and 51,000 captives. In addition the Russians said they now have captured 1,300 guns of all calibers, 5,518 trucks, sixty-two ammunition dumps and vast quantities of equipment and food.

Japs Taken by Surprise

As on a previous occasion, flares dropped from General MacArthur's bombers surprised the Japs, disclosing a sortie by a light cruiser and four destroyers.

In addition to the two destroyers sunk, a third was seen motionless for twenty-five minutes after being hit and was heading for land, as if to be beached.

Heavy loss of life by the Japs was suffered as all the ships were loaded with troops. The troops on the two certainly sunk destroyers "were undoubtedly lost," the communique said.

The light cruiser and the fourth destroyer fled to the north.

On Nov. 19, dropped flares disclosed a light cruiser and two destroyers in a similar sortie. The MacArthur bombers sank the cruiser and one destroyer and damaged the other ship. Nov. 22, another Jap destroyer was bombed and sunk.

Today's communique also told of additional Allied air raids on Portuguese Timor and of two raids by Jap planes on Port Moresby, the southeast New Guinea Allied base from which the land push over the Owen Stanley mountains toward Buna began late last September. The Jap bombs intended for Port Moresby dropped harmlessly in the brush, the noon communique stated.

A navy communique, which made no report on land activity elsewhere on the island, said that dive-bombers scored a direct hit on an enemy warehouse at Munda, New Georgia Island, 180 miles northwest of Guadalcanal airfield. The bombers were accompanied by fighter planes.

The patrol raid at Mambulo was carried out last Monday, Guadalcanal time. A navy communique issued yesterday had reported Japanese activity in the region on Monday, but without indicating its purpose or direction.

In the raids on Bizerte, the strong naval base city in Tunisia, the communique said, RAF bombers Monday night caused a large explosion and more than thirty small ones on the Bizerte airfield.

The Tuesday night attack was devoted mainly to the Bizerte docks and shipping in the harbor.

"Numerous bomb flashes were seen and there was a big sheet of flame which appeared to come from exploding gasoline," the communique said. "All bombers returned safely.

head who is responsible to the president for production and supply."

Two Bills Introduced

Identical bills to effectuate that purpose have been introduced by Tolan in the House and by Senators Pepper (D-Fla) and Kilgore (D-WVa) in the Senate.

"I am convinced the legislation is in the public interest," Truman said.

Pepper told reporters he hoped the sub-committee, of which he is chairman, would be able to report the bill to the full committee by Dec. 7. While there is little chance that it could be enacted in the remaining six weeks of the current session of Congress, Pepper hopes to use the hearings as a foundation for passage of the legislation early in the next session.

Truman told the sub-committee he did not believe that Donald M. Nelson had exercised the full authority granted him by the president as chairman of the War Production Board.

"I have told Mr. Nelson that it requires a hard-boiled executive to carry out the job," he said. "There have been some disagreements between WPB and the military which still are matters of controversy."

Tolan's Position Stated

Representative Tolan said he thought the time had come to review the entire war effort on the home front.

"Piecemeal reorganizations at this time are no substitute for a comprehensive organization which takes into account all the related elements of war production," he asserted.

"We are not using our resources the best way, the war-winning way, because the control over contracts, materials distribution and production itself remains in the hands of military personnel, unfitted either by training or temperament for the task of mobilizing the civilian economy."

A. & P. Company

been introduced to support an anti-trust division theory that the people of the United States have no right to patronize a company if their patronage will make the company grow.

"Mr. (Thurman) Arnold (head of the anti-trust division) has had his field-day at Dallas. Before a grand jury, only his accusations have been heard; only his representatives are allowed to appear; only one side of the case is presented. Because of this the courts have held that none of these charges can be presumed to be true and in no way tend to discredit anyone unless they are proved in court.

"On behalf of this company and 104,000 loyal employees, we say now that we will disprove every charge Mr. Arnold has made."

The government said that the A. and P. group were the largest purchasers, manufacturers, processors, wholesalers and retail distributors of food and products in the United States, operating 6,412 retail stores in 3,436 communities.

Each count of the indictment carries a maximum penalty of one year imprisonment (applicable only to individuals and virtually never imposed) and $1,000 fine.

In addition to the parent company, these corporate defendants were named:

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Companies of Maryland (Baltimore), New Jersey (Jersey City), Arizona (Phoenix), Nevada (Reno), and Vermont, the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Corporation of Wilmington, Del., The Quaker Maid Co., Inc., of Brockport, N. Y., The American Coffee Corporation, Jersey City, White House Milk Co., Inc., Brockport, Nakat Packing Corporation, New York, and Atlantic Commission Co., Inc., New York.

The Justice department said that the indicted group last year operated approximately 6,412 retail stores in 3,436 cities and towns in thirty-seven states, with sales aggregating $1,378,660,000, or thirteen and a half percent of the total business of grocery and combination stores in the United States.

Its position in the field, the government alleged, enabled the group to control policies and practices in the production, processing, manufacture and distribution, both at wholesale and retail, of food and food products throughout the nation. It charged that control of both the distribution and purchase and processing phases was centered in a "headquarters group" in New York.

Germans Realize Tide Is Turning, Wallace Asserts

Vice President Also Asserts Allies Will Carry Fight to Enemy

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP) — The German people are realizing that the tide is turning, Vice-President Henry A. Wallace said in a message released today in which he also promised that the United Nations will carry the fight to the enemy.

Wallace addressed the message to the nineteenth annual convention of Junior Hadassah, Young Women's Zionist Organization of America.

Declaring that we should be thankful "with all our hearts" this Thanksgiving, Wallace asserted that the young people of America know we have a war to win.

"They know that the German leaders will throw all of the strength and might of Germany against the United Nations this winter," his message read, "but they know that the rising tide of Allied production in the hands of our brave fighting men will withstand this terrorism and carry the fight to the enemy.

"More and more the German people are realizing that the tide is turning," the vice-president asserted.

He added that after this war we shall be faced with "a great problem and a great opportunity—the building of a peace which is firm, just and enduring."

Waiters and

"The remainder comes out of tips. And they tell me that there's no lavish tipping these days. In fact, some of the waiters with large families have a hard time making their combined salaries and tips go around."

Henderson Tips in Stamps

Ethel Barry, Hatcheck girl at Cafe Society uptown, said that Leon Henderson, OPA chief, was a frequent visitor, and invariably paid tips in war stamps. She cashes them with the management.

Sherman Billingsley, host at the Stork Club, said the plan was probably a good idea in Virginia, but not in New York.

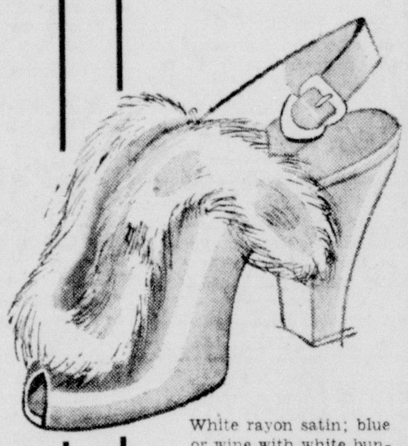

"I operate on the basis that the customers should be allowed to do as they please," said Billingsley. "A customer who at 11 a. m. had purchased $50,000 in war bonds would look a little ridiculous flashing ten-cent war stamps on the Hatcheck girl at 11 p. m. and my employes are buying all the stamps they can."

Some Reminders About Bonds

NOTE was made in a dispatch from Annapolis that payment of certain state bond obligations in the normal operation of the sinking funds provided therefor will bring a reduction of bonded indebtedness for the next two-year period of $9,436,000 and reduce the total bonded indebtedness to $26,923,000.

But we are reminded in connection with a declaration by Governor O'Conor that his administration will propose no new bond issues at the coming session of the General Assembly, for which there is no pressing reason, that if this purpose is achieved it will be the first time in thirty-seven years that the legislature will have met without passing a loan.

Herein can be seen how the governor hoodwinked so many voters in the last campaign by the emphasis he placed upon this normal retirement of state bonds. It was made to appear by inference that the net debt of the state had been reduced by the amount stated. But we have recently had reminder in official figures of the federal Commerce department that, despite outrageous income taxes and a surplus in the general fund, the O'Conor administration actually ran the state further into debt last year.

The department's figures showed that while thirty-three states reduced their gross debts during 1942, Maryland was one of the remaining fourteen whose debt climbed. Not only that, but it climbed more than the average of those that increased their debt. The average increase of the fourteen states increasing their debts was six per cent but Maryland had the unenviable distinction of boosting its debt 8.4 per cent.

The governor, it appears, went only part way in his citation of normal debt retirement and conveiently overlooked other obligations. But, if he is resolved to prevent further bond borrowings at this session of the Assembly, it will be a gratifying step. All hope he will make good. This is no time for going further into debt. Even if moneys were raised through bonds there would be neither materials nor labor available for making use of them. Besides, there is the necessity for tax relief to help citizens bear the enormous war load they have on their shoulders.

The Most Important Post-War Security

POST-WAR SECURITY already is worrying some of Uncle Sam's soldiers, his prospective soldiers and the politicians concerned with the soldier vote. Legislators are reported to be giving consideration to everything from a bonus to demobilization and rehabilitation.

Among the possibilities so far suggested are a plan for a gradual military demobilization after the war with furloughs and continued service pay for six to twelve months.

The most important thing to look after in caring for the interests of our fighting forces is the preservation of free enterprise in this nation, by which those drawn from their usual vocations to defend it may have free, equal and ample opportunity of returning to normal life with opportunity for engaging in it and earning a decent living therein.

But much will have to be done to preserve and strengthen free enterprise in the face of the inroads made against it by the New Dealers, the vote baiters and the group panderers. Nevertheless, what the returning service men will desire above everything else is not a hand-out but their rightful chance to make their way again in civil life. If they get that, they can be depended upon to make good on their own.

The Printing Industry, Too

FREQUENT REFERENCES have been made by The News to the prospect that this nation will face amazing industrial changes when the war is ended as the result of scientific research. Emphasis of that expectation comes in an article by David T. Pottinger in The American Scholar which shows that the printing industry is due to experience such changes along with other industries.

Pottinger notes that the manufacture of type from nylon, an unexpected and almost fantastic development, has been granted the du Ponts and forecasts in this the development of lighter presses and still greater speed in printing.

In fact, Pottinger goes on to predict the possibility of dispensing with "the fundamental element in all printing—the impression of an inked surface against a sheet of paper"—through the use of a machine that prints by electrical attraction. "The principle is much the same as that used in propelling a trolley car, where the trolley is charged with one kind of electricity and the rails with another. The printing surface, whether type or plates, is made one electrical pole and the impression cylinder that carries the paper the other. After the form is inked the paper is brought down by the cylinder to about an eighth of an inch from the type; electrical attraction then forces the ink to jump the gap."

Television, too, will serve the printer's trade, according to Pottinger. "When television comes . . . it will be possible for a printer in New York to make a faithful colcred print of a garden in New Mexico without ever having seen the original or a colored photograph of it. And our beautiful art magazines will be able to show their readers perfect reproduction from the latest exhibition in London within twenty-four hours of the opening."

These developments are typical of many in prospect to which reference has heretofore been made in these columns. Altogether they bespeak the beginning of a wonderful new era when this war ends—an era to be eagerly faced and begun as soon as it is possible.

Thanksgiving In the Old Way

ALTHOUGH Thanksgiving is to be celebrated today on the traditional fourth Thursday in November, many persons who are older than they once were regret that its observance as a religious occasion is not as general as was the case a few score years ago. But it is still regarded as a day for families to get together again to bind the ties of blood and kinship firmer than ever.

The large family reunions that were once so common on Thanksgiving day are less the rule today. Many persons can recollect women who were wont to construct dinners for twenty or thirty persons, and they didn't get greatly excited over the event. This was not a novelty for housewives of old. Like star performers on the stage, they enjoyed doing the thing they knew so perfectly.

People rarely have a greater feeling of elation than that of the lady of the house at the turn of the century as she bore to the dinner table the noble and luscious turkey on the giant platter, amid the "ohs" and "ahs" of the children, with anticipatory whiffs of fragrant aroma enjoyed by old and young.

There are not as many women today who could perform in this manner. If custom decrees a family get-together at this holiday, the family hearth for the day is likely to be moved to some hotel or restaurant.

Families are scattered over the world now, and it is hard to assemble all the members. But it is worth while to make an effort to observe this holiday in the old way. It is good for old and young to mingle in these close ties again.

The citizen who, intent on buying a pound of sugar, has to wade through draft registration, auto registration, driver's license, gasoline rationing and tire registration credentials to find his sugar rationing book can be understandingly excused if he puts in little time extolling the merits of the Atlantic Charter.

British planes based at Malta have been unable to find any trace of the Italian "navy." This would be a good time for Stiletto Ben to utter a cry of "here goes nothing!" and take it out to meet the Allied fleet.

The All-American team this year should include some real star performers such as Halsey, Eisenhower, Doolittle, MacArthur, Clark and Patton.

What burns up the Italians is that even their reputation as runners has now been taken away from them by the Germans.

Lady Luck!

By MARSHALL MASLIN

We call her Lady Luck because we hardly trust her. We're on our best behavior when she is around. We take off our hats in any elevator she enters. We rise when she comes into the room and offer her six chairs at once. We remember her birth and send costly presents.

Marshall Maslin

But we ARE afraid of her. We suspect her and if we dread, we'd spread scandal about her. WE DON'T LIKE HER!

Lady Luck has a flirtatious eye—a perky nose—lips that are red-as-a-rose. But that eye can change from soft velvet to cold green. That nose can turn upward in derision. That mouth can harden and sneer. That softly shaped chin can stiffen and her delicate jaws set in anger. . . . That's the other side of Lady Luck.

She's a vixen, a heartless wench. She'll kick a man when he's down and scatter lavishly her favors on him who needs them not. A sulky lass. A Circe who makes swine of men. A harpy with claws. A siren sitting on a rock and singing she's got spurs that jingle, jangle, jingle. A Sybil frenzied in her cave, telling fortunes by drifting leaves. Never a Cassandra, telling sad truths no man will believe—but one who slips the dagger into the heart of the strong and the brave and the true.

And yet she CAN be so lovely, so gentle and so generous, so soft and so surrendering, with a sweet fragrance about her lips and the grace of the swan. Such an innocent lass, such a brooding and tender mother of men.

She plays Queen Midas and all you touch turns to gold. She stands behind you at the card table and filches aces and kings from other hands, to slip into yours. She brings you through black darkness, out of frightening peril. She sets a stone beneath your feet in the quicksand, guides the floating spar to the sinking sailor, brings the sad lad to his predestined sweetheart, sends strong arms to the delicate maid. Does this and many another gracious deed.

So is it strange men should fear Lady Luck, bow as she passes—and hope for her favor to the last earthly breath?

Is it strange the prayers of men stream up to her in such numbers that they darken the sky. She is so sweet and she is so cruel. She is Lady Luck!

Strike by Public Employes Is Seen As Vital Question

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Capitol

On December 9, the War Labor Board will hold a hearing on a dispute, including a strike, between the city government of Newark, N. J., and a union of city employees. The importance of this hearing lies in the fact that the Labor board's decision will be a precedent. As it is put by a member of the Labor Board's panel handling the case:

"This case may be the first of many like cases to occur in American public life during the present emergency; and as such, the handling of this particular case will set a precedent or pattern for further cases to follow in many parts of the country."

One question involved it, have government employees—city, state or federal—the right to strike, as in fact the city employees of Newark did strike last month. To this question, the answer of the unions is yes. "Yes" is not only the answer of local unions, which actually have struck, in Newark and other cities. It is also the answer of a nationwide union of government employees, affiliated with the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The name of the union is "The State, County and Municipal Workers of America."

Strikes Opposed at First

This national union, when it was first organized, put into its constitutio na declaration against strikes, saying: "It shall not be a policy of this organization to engage in strikes as a means of achieving its objectives." This declaration, it may be inferred, was put in the original constitution as an incident of starting the union and soliciting members throughout the country. Many government employees might be willing to join a union—yet unwilling to practice strikes or picketing.

In September 1941, however, the national union, in annual convention, revised its constitution — so as to authorize strikes, "after a local union has exhausted all other methods to attain its collective bargaining objective." In pursuance of this asserted right, local unions of city employees have conducted several strikes, some very recent. The latest conspicuous ones were the one in Newark, and one in Cincinnati, O., both in October. The Cincinnati strike was by employees of the city water system, belonging to a union affiliated with the United Mine Workers. In this strike, the city authorities used prisoners from the workhouse to maintani the water service.

Opposed by Roosevelt

From sources other than unions, the answer to the question, whether government employees have the right to strike, is no. Those who hold this view include, or once did include, President Roosevelt. In current discussion of the question there is frequent repetition of a statement said to have been made by Mr. Roosevelt some years ago:

> "All government employees should realize that the process of collective bargaining, as usually understood, cannot be transplanted into the public service . . . A strike of public employees manifests nothing else than an intent on their part to prevent or obstruct the operations of government until their demands are satisfied. Such action, looking toward the paralysis of government, by those who have sworn to support it, is unthinkable and intolerable."

That this answer by President Roosevelt must necessarily be universal, can be suggested by a simple consideration of analogies. If sanitation service employees, and water service employees, can strike, as in fact they have, why not firemen? If firemen, why not policemen? If policemen, why not soldiers?

Condoned by Board

It would be thought that with the president's view on record, his view would be followed by the War Labor Board. If strikes by employees of government are beyond the pale of law, the War Labor Board would be expected to treat such a strike as an outlawed thing. The War Labor Board as such has not taken any completely formal jurisdiction over the Newark strike—the board's hearing for December 9 is announced to be for the purpose of deciding whether or not it shall take jurisdiction. But the board has certainly taken notice of the Newark strike, and, through its subordinates, condoned it.

When the Board, last month, took notice of the Newark strike, it turned the case over to what is called a "panel" of three subordinates. This fact-finding panel, by a 2 to 1 majority, issued a formal report and recommendations. About the central question, the fact-finding panel guardedly said:

> "The fact- finding panel is fully aware of the fact that various legal issues cluster about the problem of the relation of employee unions and governmental bodies. These issues lie outside the scope of the report."

Yet the Labor board panel, having tagen that guarded position, proceeded to condone the strike, at least. In its report, it recommended that the Labor board direct the city of Newark to reinstate employees who had taken part in the strike, and that the city "be directod to recognize" the union.

RECEIVES AWARD

Miss Jane Todd, representing Westchester in the New York State Assembly, is shown holding the Award for Eminent Achievement of the American Women's Association presented to her at the sixteenth annual Friendship dinner at a New York hotel. Mrs. Natalie Couch Williams, a member of the jury which selected the assemblywoman for the honor, made presentation.

THANKSGIVING

Blunting Income Taxation Will Destroy The Democratic System, Mallon Avers

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The administration is proposing to correct its mistake in illegally limiting salaries to $25,000 (without approval of Congress) by doubling the size of the error.

Paul Mallon

Mrs. Roosevelt is quoted in the press as saying the limitation will or should be extended to earnings from investments.

Either way or both, this restriction alone can re-make and destroy the American way of life and the democratic capitalistic form of government, as anyone who will weigh the facts carefully can see.

The greatest problem this country faces is to pay for this war. The debt is now running over $100,000,000,000 and will continue upward.

The only way this government can sustain itself is by taking the earnings of the people to a similarly unprecedented degree. The weight of the debt will shrink proportionately as incomes go up.

Earnings Essential

What we must have to sustain democracy now and after the war is highest productivity, highest earnings, a greater national income than ever before, full employment and good profits—so all these sources of income can be tapped by taxation to an extent never before attempted.

If income from investments is to be limited to $25,000 annually, there will not be sufficient investment to sustain a capitalistic democratic system. No one will risk more than enough in private enterprise to make that sum. Financial stagnation will ensue.

Money will not be ventured in new enterprises, to furnish new employment, higher wages, better working conditions. Existing enterprises will be limited in their growth if they are already furnishing each of their stockholders $25,000 a year.

Greatest sufferer will not be the investor, who is already making his $25,000, but labor—the union or non-union labor—that is employed with the investors' money.

Leaders Will Quit

If salaries are to be limited to $25,000, similarly, no one will waste his energy trying to make more. The superior lawyer, architect, artist, concert musician, actor, doctor, business executive will make his $25,000 and quit.

Greatest sufferers from this eventuality will not be the persons who have made their $25,000 (which is enough for them) but the average worker who relies upon them for support.

But the party to suffer most is the United States Treasury—the people's purse—strained by this unprecedented, colossal war load. Its revenues will fall off as earnings of investirs and high salaried persons are limited.

It will have to tax the average man more and more, and if he cannot carry this added burden after the war, the Treasury will break down and our democratic system with it.

Big Earnings Tax

Now, all these large incomes from investments or salaries are taxed profitably for the people as a whole. The tax on $100,000 earned is $65,140 (larger from investments). On $200,000, it is $151,000.

As long as we keep these large income people working fully they not only furnish employment, capital investment sources, and contribute directly to the economies of the nation, but we take three-fourths of what they earn or more away from them in taxes.

Any man now earning $200,000 is working eight months a year for the country—the people as a whole—and only four months for himself. What the administration proposes is that he shall stop working the eight months for the nation and work only the four months for himself.

This is bad enough in war times, when the will to win—plus unprecedented government expenditures—furnishes the impetus for full production, but after the war, such an impetus will be lacking.

Ban on Superiority

In truth, a peacetime restriction along this line would be a simple direct ban upon superior business energy of American, the extra initiative, the desire to get rich, which has made this nation the envy of the world.

No greater nonsense than these income restrictions were ever perpetrated on a free people. And why? Well, the excuse for it now is that the government wants to avoid inflation.

This is manifestly absurd, because a sixty-five percent tax on a $100,000 income already has met the inflation danger in a wise and profitable way.

The only other excuse is that the CIO wanted it (long ago, the Communists proposed it) and it apparently sounded good to Roosevelt and some other officials not fully identified in the public discussions about the matter.

Communists Only Gainers

The only ones who could possibly gain from it are the Communists who want our system to fail. Labor and the CIO would suffer, and no roubt Mrs. Roosevelt would suffer (and the charities she sustains, as well).

Apparently, both the CIO and Mrs. Roosevelt look at it only from the standpoint of the person who is getting the big money. The only way in which the question should be viewed is from the standpoint of the people as a whole.

From that standpoint, the opposite policy is demanded—higher and higher incomes for everyone to keep everyone producing fully, larger investments to inspire new enterprise and new employment and better working conditions, and terrific taxation of them to keep the Democratic way of life going.

That is the only way we can survive this war.

Maryland Farm Musings

By the Extension Service of the University of Maryland

Better management of farm animals is not only good business, but it is also patriotic in this time of critical need for more meat.

To meet the call for increased production of crops will require careful attention to all details. Rotations must be maintained and soil fertility preserved; farm machinery must be kept in repair.

A good wartime dairy program is also a sound dairy program in normal times. A sound program properly executed should pay dividends to Maryland dairymen by increased milk production and cash received for surplus cattle.

Loss of almost half of the crop of potatoes on the Western Shore of Maryland in 1942, due to destruction of the vines and tubers by late blight, is a good example of the severe losses which may be caused by crop diseases.

With curtailed supplies of many canned foods and perhaps rationing in store for civilians; with transportation difficulties limiting the supplies of some foods in the markets; with some of the dried foods and canned foods requisitioned by the government for use of the armed forces; consumers in Maryland must look to fresh fruits and vegetables to supply a large portion of their food needs.

Britain Is More Lenient in Taxes, Lawrence Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 — Mrs. Roosevelt is the latest person to fall victim to the misleading statement that a person in Great Britain, no matter how wealthy, has only $21,000 left after paying taxes. Somebody told this to the First Lady, probably in good faith, but whoever gave her the information didn't know that many deductions for expenses in Britain are allowed which are not allowed in America, so that, in the final analysis, if a $67,000 ceiling on salaries for instance, were placed in England, the British business executive would have far more left after paying taxes than anybody in the United States would have.

Thus, life insurance premiums are allowed as a full-rate tax deduction from gross income before taxes for all persons who earn more than $8,000 a year. The total allowance cannot exceed one-sixth of the policy-holder's total income from all sources. Under the recent executive order limiting incomes to $25,000 no deductions of any kind are allowed on a $67,000 salary so as to bring the final amount remaining to $25,000.

Insurance Not Deductable

Insurance premiums are not allowed as a deduction in the United States—against gross income—not even term insurance, which carries no cash or borrowing value and is taken out solely for protection, in many instances, by persons who have no estate but wish to protect their families against their sudden death.

Also in Britain all foreign income taxes and local taxes are deductible, so that when a man earns $67,000, for instance, he can reduce that sum considerably by the allowable deductions. In America, no deductions from gross income for state taxes are allowed in complying with the recent executive order limiting net salaries to $25,000 a year.

It is true that insurance premiums are being given some credit as an offset in the United States against the Victory tax which starts in 1943, but, in figuring the $25,000 ceiling, no credit is given for any insurance deductions as against the total gross income.

In America, because of the taxes of the several states, the taxpayer who has had his salary limited to a gross of $67,000 by the recent executive order doesn't have $25,000 left but a very much diminished amount, because he still has to pay his state and city taxes out of his $25,000.

Taxation Preferred

Mrs. Roosevelt unfortunately was away when the executive order was issued. Judging by her comments when she came back, she would have preferred to bring about the reduction in big salaries by means of taxation. She evidently is under the impression that the salary ceiling was accomplished by law or by the tax method, for she says she was surprised to find that income from investment was not covered by the recent limitation on salaries and she added: "But I was assured we would tax that, too."

Mrs. Roosevelt apparently expected the Congress to do the limiting. She is credited with having originated the whole idea, though the CIO is claiming credit for it also, and the reports generally circulating around Washington are that the president was afraid to put into effect a freezing order on wages unless he accompanied it with the salary limitation demanded of him him by the CIO.

It will be recalled that Congress specifically refused to grant the president's proposal for a $25,000 limitation of salaries but that the executive went ahead later anyhow, claiming that he had the power under the anti-inflation law. Just how a reduction in pre-war salaries of America's most successful executives is a step to prevent inflation is difficult to understand, and it is quite possible that the inflation law was merely an excuse for an action that was taken for political reasons—namely, to placate labor.

Value of Generals

Not long ago James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, said that only 3,000 persons were affected but that judging by the fury raised it seemed as if 3,000,000 were affected. If the government suddenly cut by two-thirds the salaries of all generals in the army so as to level them off to a point nearer the scale of enlisted men, there might not be more than 500 persons affected.

Maybe America's managers of war production plants aren't as important as generals in the field, but, judging by the way America's management class is working day and night to get planes, ships and munitions into the hands of our men quickly, they might possibly be regarded as worth some consideration by their government. They certainly will deserve distinguished service medals when the war is over, for they will have done their jobs despite one of the most unfair examples of arbitrary authority ever recorded in the relation of the executive branch of our government to its citizens.

Thanksgiving

Let's all be thankful

Despite the dark war clouds hovering over us, we Americans have more to be thankful for than any people on the face of the earth.

Let's show our thankfulness by responding to every call of duty, by bearing discomforts without complaint, by sacrificing some of our pleasures and luxuries to lend a helping hand to those whose very lives depend on our generosity.

When an FBI agent and other authorities went to his home Gellner's father allegedly pulled a gun on them. The son was forcibly carried from the home by the officers. MISSIONARY IS SAFE IN PHILIPPINES, PARENTS LEARN

Charles E. Wolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wolf, of Hollidaysburg, Pa., is safe at the Sacred Heart Novitiate of the Society of Jesus (Jesuits), at Caloocon, Rizal, fifteen miles from Manila. His parents received word to this effect after being uncertain since the Jap invasion of the fate of their son. The father operates a furniture store here.

Young Wolf left for the Philippines to spend seven years as a missionary. He is a graduate of the Altoona Catholic high school, class of 1937, and attended St. Isaac Jogues novitiate at Wernersville, near Reading, Pa. He was given his mandate for missionary work with six other young men at Fordham university, N. Y., at services presided over by His Excellency, Most Rev. Stephen J. Donohue, auxiliary bishop of New York.

His brother, Ensign George A. Wolf, Jr., was killed in action in the Jap sneak attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, while he was stationed on the U. S. S. Arizona.

Women Who Work in Industry Are Faced By Many New Problems, Doctor Reports

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

We commented earlier this week in an article on the dislocation in American life that was brought about by the war and the hygienic problems consequent upon this "upside down living." To continue the subject, let me mention some other situations.

Many husbands, wives, unmarried sons and daughters are going to work at 4 or 5 p. m., starting for home at 12 midnight or 1 a. m. We have all-night movies for this "swing shift." We have taverns, night clubs, catering to these workers whose chief opportunity for reccreation is in the early morning hours instead of the early evening hours. Is this healthy? Is this kind of recreation better than none at all?

I should say that this kind of recreation is better than none at all, but I certainly do not regard it as ideal recreation. I believe that it would be better for these workers to get home and sleep in the early morning hours after they have finished work and go to a movie or, do their shopping in the early afternoon before they go to work. They don't need recreation in the form of exercise inasmuch, as they get exercise in their ordinary work.

What about the girl industrial worker? She is in the midst of whirling belts and machinery. She is in an environment that is not natural for any human being and even less natural for a woman than for a man. She must make a change in the style of her clothes, bind up her hair, wear slacks.

There is nothing innately unhealthful about the clothes situation, but I believe they should be styled and standardized for women workers in each industry. There is no question, however, that a woman's physique and psychology and the periodicity of her life make her less able to stand continued strain in industry than a man, and I believe women should have more frequent vacations and more time off than men workers.

The same thing applies to the women who are doing war volunteer work as Red Cross nurse aides, in the Salvation Army, civilian defense and in canteen work. They certainly should not let their enthusiasm run away with them to the extent that they devote hours to their work and are forced to neglect their household duties and let this work interfere with recreation and normal rest periods.

Mature Women

Many are women of mature years who cannot stand continued strain; the physical endurance that is needed in their work and the emotional assaults that are made on them by the war situation tend to undermine their endurance. Often they are unconscious of this process and keep on working long after they should have a good rest.

About all of these problems, I realize that these opinions are simply my own and I would be grateful for any suggestions from readers or for any differences of opinion, which will be given full publicity in this column.

Questions and Answers

P. H. G.: Many years ago I had a case of severe bronchitis and was also afflicted with sinus catarrh. I now have an excessive amount of mucous, apparently from the throat and nose and catch cold easily. Would you advise change in climate and if so, where?

Answer: This combination of conditions is a frequent cause of the sort of disability which you describe. It is a very slow development. It begins with repeated acute sinus infections and then there is a chronic sinus infection and finally the bronchial tubes become infected. I believe a hot, dry climate, such as a desert climate, is the best element in treatment.

War workers on night shifts have clubs specially organized for midnight and early morning recreational programs.

DRESSMAKER TOUCH

A little secret every woman knows is—one suit plus half-a-dozen blouses equals a complete wardrobe. This season more than ever the suit is the universal costume of the busy woman, and quick-change blouses are required equipment. Here is shown one in Celanese rayon crepe with embroidered yoke.

Cabbages and Roses Meet in New Garden

ST. LOUIS, Mo., (AP) — Amateur American gardeners, planning their 1943 planting this winter by the fireside, should know that their flower beds will be more patriotic next summer if cabbages and carrots grow alongside the petunias and roses.

Famed Shaw's gardens in St. Louis, where experiments are made with plants from all parts of the world, tried the vegetable-flower bed idea last summer and found it satisfactory, says Superintendent George H. Pring.

Small pink tomatoes, rhubarb, red and purple cabbages, red peppers, globe artichoke, carrots and other vegetables were matched with flowers and shrubs. Pring says it was important to make the color-effect harmonious. When that was accomplished the visitors said the dual-purpose gardens were "as pretty if not prettier" than straight flower gardens.

Transforms Wood Into Child's Toys

Richmond, Va., (AP) — Early in July every year Henley Hall, a Richmond clothing salesman starts his Christmas shopping for a load of wood. From then until shortly before Christmas, Hall spends his leisure time in his basement workshop, transforming the wood into doll beds, blocks, toy carts, wooden animals and almost any wooden toy that a child could desire for Christmas.

The toys go to the Crippled Children's Home and the Methodist Orphanage here and to individuals whose Christmas stockings he wants to fill.

A canal linking the Neva and Volkhov rivers, in Russia, has been in operation for 300 years.

Good Ol' Days Are Not the Same Now

GOLDEN, Colo., (AP)—Alumni from back behind the rubber-tire era that opened in the twenties frequently boasted at Colorado School of Mines reunions about the good old days when the rip-roaring miners chartered special trains for distant football games.

Came '42 and gas rationing and the Miners planned to revive the train idea with at least one weekend football excursion out of the state. Then the Office of Defense Transportation stepped in and said specials were out for the duration.

But the Miners were determined to get a taste of the good old days. When they played Regis college they arranged for a "special" to take the entire student body, band and all, to the game.

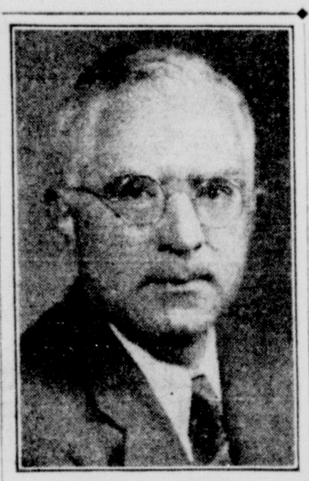

It was a "special" made up of interurban cars for the 12-mile run from Golden to Denver.

Wolf Co. Gives Honor to Founder

CHARLES E. WOLF

Special Fall Observance Will Be Inaugurated Saturday

GEORGE A. WOLF

HERBERT T. WOLF

(Altoona, Pennsylvania)—Starting Saturday, and continuing through the remainder of the month, the Wolf Furniture Company of Cumberland, as well, as all their branch stores, will conduct a special observance, in honor of the Company's founder, the late Charles E. Wolf.

This auspicious event will give tribute to the memory of a man, whose zeal, integrity, and high character founded well a business, that has had phenomenal growth, in the forty years of it's continued progress.

Charles E. Wolf, the Founder of the above business, was born in the small town of Hollidaysburg, Pennsylvania of Catholic parentage, where he received his early education at a Catholic school. When he attained manhood, he engaged in the occupation of cabinet maker. Later, moving to the city of Altoona, six miles East of his birthplace he embarked into the Retail Furniture business, locating in a small store on Green Avenue, far remote from the business district. Charles E. Wolf was a man of sterling character, and righteous business principles, and when he opened his store to the public, set up as his standard of operation, "Honesty, Quality and Low Price." With the continuous practice of these principles the store grew yearly, it's growth being so rapid, that in a few short years, it became necessary that in order to cope with the needs of it's vast throngs of customers, whom he always considered as personal friends, to erect a new building at Eleventh Avenue and Fifteenth Street, the structure consisting of six (6) floors high and a block and a half long, which building stands today as a memorial to him.

At the time of his demise, his two sons, George A. and Herbert T. Wolf, who had been associated with their father, succeeded him, and at present are the sole owners of the Wolf Furniture Company of Altoona, Cumberland, and the many other branch stores, which has been the realization of a dream patterned after their father's business ideals.

Sons of Founder Assume Control

At the death of the Founder, George A. and Herbert T. Wolf assumed the active management and sole control of the fast growing Wolf Furniture Company, determined to pattern after their father's business principles, and to carry to completion his ideals.

Under their able management, the Wolf Furniture Company continued to grow, as the result of the confidence reposed in them, by the Blair county people, by reason of them always being first in bringing to Altoona and vicinity, the very latest styles in Quality Furniture, at the lowest possible prices, as well as according each customer every consideration and friendly treatment. This type of policy together with the fact, that in all their business experience they never pressed collection of an account, or once repossessed merchandise from one customer who was temporarily unable to meet their obligation.

As a consequence this type of treatment brought about such tremendous demands on the firm, by the people of Central Pennsylvania, seeking items of furniture for their homes, that the management deemed it only fair, that the people of the outlying communities were entitled to that same Wolf Service in their own town, as they enjoyed while shopping in Altoona.

Other Stores Opened

The decision was then reached to bring to these loyal customers a Wolf Store in their own home town. Stores were opened in Tyrone, Pa., Barnesboro, Pa., Philipsburg, Pa., Bellefonte, Pa., Lewistown, Pa., and Ebensburg, Pa.

The demand upon the part of the public for Wolf's Service, Wolf's Quality, Wolf's Lowest Prices, Wolf's Credit Terms, Wolf's Customer Consideration, Wolf's Friendly Treatment, Wolfs' Latest Styles etc., etc., continued to mount, and it was readily very apparent, that these additional units were not sufficient to meet Wolf's customers demands.

Altoona Store Expanded

The management then conceived the plan of enlarging the Altoona store by extending each one of it's five stores, adding a new and complete floor, additional warehouse space, a new fleet of trucks, new and modern office equipment, new lighting, employing an additional corps of employees, adding to their already complete stocks every imaginable item of furniture, of every type manufactured.

This increased capacity for handling Wolf customers seemed to suffice for the time being, but gradually almost one hundred percent of the newlyweds, being advised by their fathers and mothers, who were Wolf customers, came to look and depended upon Wolf's to furnish their home.

As many of these couples resided in communities, considerable distance from the Altoona store, the management realizing that they would be Wolf customers from time to time, again decided that they were entitled, out of appreciation for their business, to have the Wolf service in their home city.

The word then went forward to open stores in Huntingdon, Pa., and Clearfield, Pa.

While the Wolf Furniture Company, is a Pioneer Pennsylvania concern, the volume of business they were favored with by the good people of Cumberland, Maryland, they could not be unmindful of the fact that Cumberland should have it's own Wolf Store, where they too could enjoy Wolf's many services, unequalled by any other furniture concern.

Cumberland Store Opened in 1939

The Wolf Furniture Company of Cumberland, located at 38 North Mechanic St., opposite the Maryland Theatre, opened its doors to the people of Cumberland and surrounding vicinities, March 15th, 1939, setting up as its business standards, the same business principles, and ideals inaugurated by the Founder, and successfully followed out by his successors, his two sons George A. and Herbert T. Wolf.

The immediate acceptance of the Wolf Furniture Company in Cumberland, upon the part of the people, and the patronage they were favored with, was beyond their expectations. This proved conclusively that the Wolf policy of Fair Dealing, Honest Treatment, Quality Merchandise, Lowest Prices and Easy Terms of Payment, had a definite place in this Community. While the success of the Cumberland Store has been phenominal, according to the pledge of the Manager, this will not prompt any let down in the Wolf Service. You can depend upon this store for furniture council, and at all times to be in a position to supply you with every furniture need for your home. This store consists of four floors, having on display a complete stock of any item for your home, priced at less than you can obtain elsewhere.

Wolf's Active in Civic and Spiritual Affairs

George A. and Herbert T. Wolf, owners of the Greater Wolf Furniture Company Stores, were born in Altoona, Pa., educated in the Catholic Grade and Catholic High Schools of that community. They are both heads of families, and members of the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament, of which they take an active part. The senior member, George A. Wolf, being president of the laymen's retreat at St. Francis College for the past seven years. He likewise was the principal figure in leading the movement, and chairman of the committee of Blair County to raise the sum of $30,000.00 dollars to purchase the late Charles M. Schwab estate at Loretto, Pa., which was donated by the committee to St. Francis College.

He is also an honorary member and past president of the Kiwanis Club, Chairman of the Board, and Vice-President of the Central Trust Company, an active member of the Knights of Columbus, and many other organizations.

Both men have always been very civic minded, taking a leading part in all affairs pertaining to the betterment of the community and the welfare of the people, wherever Wolf's stores are located.

"A Store Has Little Future If It Cannot Be Proud Of It's Past"

The Wolf Furniture Company is Proud of Their Record

To hope for a prosperous future, any store must look back upon a healthy past. Upon a wholesome foundation a great store can continue to grow, but, stores are what men make them, what men demand they shall be. Back in 1902 Charles E. Wolf founded the Wolf Furniture Company. From that day forty years ago, when the first customer walked into our store, patrons have found they could depend upon Wolf's for honesty, truthfulness and quality.
The Wolf Furniture Co., of Cumberland, and nine other Wolf stores are fitting tributes to the founder's memory.

We are justly proud of our past and the fine business principles practiced so faithfully during the founder's lifetime. They have formed the solid foundation upon which we, his successors, build.
The confidence of the patrons of the Wolf Furniture Company is the one thing we prize above everything else.

Plas Cites Way To Defeat Japan

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25 (AP)—Only a land invasion of Japan proper can defeat that nation, bred in a tradition of divine origin, in the opinion of Dr. Charles O. van der Plas, former governor of Java and member of the advisory council of the Netherlands government in London.

It is possible and desirable to retake some of the Dutch East Indies, he said in an interview here, and prevent the Japanese from getting use of oil, tin and other resources they so vitally need. Active resistance to the invader still is being carried on in Timor, the Celebes and Borneo, he reported.

"But I think the Japanese will fight on until we land on the old country," he declared. "For 2,000 years they have been taught they are of divine origin. They consider it a kindness for them to step in and take over another country, and that serving them should be a cherished privilege. They have not been really menaced on their home territory since the thirteenth century, and the fact that some enemy fleets headed their way were smashed by storms only strengthened their conviction of invulnerability."

Hardy County Selective Service Board Appoints Helpers

Are Selected To Help Fill Out Questionnaires

Men in Various Sections of County Will Assist Registrants

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 25 — The Hardy County Selective Service Board, composed of E. A. Hawse, Albert Leatherman and George W. Miley, has appointed helpers in different parts of the country who will assist in filling out questionnaires. These appointees are all notaries and understand what is wanted by the draft board and how the questions must be answered.

The appointments are as follows: O. Lee Heltzel and H. H. Dudley, Wardensville; Esta Bean Bott, V. G. Ely, Baker; Marion Deahl, H. Riley Hisghman, Lost City; Preston Emswiler, Virgil Mathias, Mathias; Roy Bean, Inkerman; Ralph J. Bean, William Teets, H. M. Calhoun, Moorefield; James W. Dove, Peru; M. A. Evans, Flats; Richard Barr, Rig.

The Board also made public a ruling from the National headquarters in regard to induction of male persons who were not registrants on December 8, 1941.

The letter reads, in part: "Regardless of the liability to register on December 8, 1941, or thereafter, all male persons residing in the United States were, by the declaration of war, placed on notice that their induction was imminent.

"It follows, therefore, that no marriage consumated after December 8, 1941 may be recognized in the consideration of any registrant for dependency deferment.

And in regard to the dependency status of registrants whose children were born during the month of September 1942—

"Although certain statements have appeared in the press and have emanated from other sources that a child born on or after September 7, 1942 could not be considered a dependent, the Medical division of this headquarters has made the following recommendation:

"1. In cases of mature infants born before September 14, 1942, it may be presumed that conception occurred before December 8, 1941.

"2. In cases of mature infants born on or after September 14, 1942, it may be presumed that conception occurred after December 8, 1941."

Court Proceedings

At a special term of the circuit court held in Moorefield, November 20 and not yet completed, the following decisions were handed down by Judge H. M. Calhoun.

The case of C. O. Moton, administrator for Martha V. Dotson, deceased vs. C. L. Burch, et als—cause dismissed and case retired.

A. D. Myres guardian for Edgar Allen Bowers, ordered to pay the young man half the funds in his hands.

H. G. Muntzing, guardian for Damie H. Mathias, ordered to pay necessary funds for maintenance.

Divorce granted Walter Ray Patch and Mildred Jeanette Patch.

South Branch Valley National Banks J. B. Fitswater; H. G. Muntzing appointed special commissioner to execute deed for land sold.

In civil cases: The state of West Virginia vs. Vernon Welch, the sale of the car was confirmed and funds disbursed.

In the case of the State of West Virginia vs. Lester W. Haugh, a fine of $50 was imposed and license revoked.

The case of P. D. Delawder, administrator of the Sallie Garrett estate vs. J. F. Garrett and Daisy Garrett — the case was settled out of court and case dismissed.

Two Buses Added

Effective November 15, the Towns Bus line, which operates a bus system from Harrisonburg, Va., to Cumberland, through Franklin, Petersburg, Moorefield and Romney, put on two extra buses from Petersburg to Cumberland. It was found that the greater amount of travel was from those points and that the buses in use were so crowded that the new ones were necessary.

Young Sailors Learn They Are Brothers

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Nov. 25 (AP) —Two young American sailors who became chums and bunkmates after enlisting in the navy the same day in separate cities have discovered they are brothers.

Charles H. Woods, 19, next to the youngest of eight orphaned children in Barboursville, Ky., was adopted in 1937 by J. R. West, who moved to Columbus, Ohio, and lost all contact with his family.

Last September, Charles joined the navy in Columbus and on the same day Garrett Foods, 17, signed up at Louisville, Ky. They met at the Great Lakes Training Station, where they occupied adjacent bunks, but didn't discover their relationship until they reached the Norfolk Navy Yard when Charles mentioned a twin sister at Artemius, Ky.

"Why she's my sister, too," exclaimed Garrett.

Music of Russian Is Booked for Friday

Music of the Russian composer, Dmitri Shostakovitch, is to be available in two places on Friday afternoon. Part of it will come simultaneously, because one of the programs is to be on at same time as the other.

The longest broadcast will be that of the Philadelphia orchestra, resuming on MBS at 2:30 to 4:15, under the direction of Eugene Ormandy after a week's absence. The other program, a half-hour on CBS at 3:30, will be provided by the Eastman school symphony.

Heavyweight Bout

Another fight night on MBS will produce a heavyweight bout between Lee Savold and Jimmy Bivins, handled as usual by Don Dunphy and Bill Corum from 10 o'clock until the end . . . MBS is shifting its race activities to New Orleans, with the program to go on at 4:45.

Broadcast from the opening of an exhibit of various types of counterfeit money, including that which the Axis generally tries to flood into an enemy country, will come to NBC at 10:30. Lowell Thomas will have charge of the program, which is listed as "The Silent Saboteur."

Double or Nothing, Walter Compton's quiz show on MBS at 9:30, will salute West Point's air arm, with Col. John M. Weikert as the guest of honor.

Coffee Shortage Is Real in Greece

New York (AP) — Worried about the coffee shortage? You don't know the half of it.

According to New York officials of the Greek War Relief Association, a Greek laborer would have to work 188 days, or more than six months, to earn enough money to buy one pound of coffee, which costs the equivalent of $190 on the Black Market.

ACCUSED OF TEASING SQUIRRELS

Alfred Felardo displays the strange apparatus with which, according to police, he was teasing squirrels in New York's Central park. He had decoy squirrels, according to the complaint, and tied the walnuts to the branch in order to foil real squirrels who might be lured.

Telltale Bulge Is Hunter's Undoing

MILL CREEK, W. Va. (AP)—Game protector Wayne Stalnaker believed that a resident of Cheat Mountain in Randolph county was killing deer illegally. But he could not discover proof at the mountaineer's home. Finally on another visit he noted that the suspected huntsman had redecorated the inside of his log dwelling with bright new wall paper. There were suspicious bulges around the walls. When his host wasn't looking, Stalnaker scratched a hole in the paper. Underneath he found fresh deer hides nailed to the logs. The penalty—$100 and 90 days.

Pussy Rides the Rails

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP) — A week old kitten hitched a ride on a train from Butte to Deer Lodge. When the string of freight cars arrived here, trainmen found the young cat clinging for dear life to the housing of a wheel. They were convinced the kitten had made the 50 mile journey from Butte in that position.

Parents Finding Draft Rejectees Are New Problem

Many, through Medical Care, Have Been Rendered Fit

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D

A large number of youths are rejected by the armed forces because they have failed to pass the physical and mental examination.

Many a youth rejected because of physical disability never knew of it until his physical examination. Of other rejectees, some were handicapped to this extent for want of proper nutrition, medical or dental care. The cause of this may have been ignorance, indifference or economic handicap of the parents. Where it was, the community failed in its responsibility. Of course, many a youth is physically unfit for the armed forces in spite of the best care his parents or community can provide.

The problem now is what is best for the rejected youth, his community and nation? What should his parents try to do about it?

Though a very few of these rejected youths and their parents are glad of the escape from service in the armed forces, most of them will change their attitude by and by. To the large majority of those rejected it is a terrible tragedy. Some of them would give anything for the privilege of offering their lives to their country.

Many Rendered Fit

Fortunately a goodly number of these have, through proper medical and dental care, been rendered fit for the armed forces or industry. Wisely, some are going back to school. For many of these rejectees there is need of great wisdom of their parents and other relatives to help them adjust themselves to the awful disappointment.

It is not only for the present that the patriotic rejectee has concern but also for the future. He wonders how he will feel in talking about it to his children and grandchildren. Besides, he may feel, in some cases, he is not a good bet for marriage.

It would seem that parents of the rejected youth should be willing to make any reasonable sacrifice to help restore him to physical health.

Also the patriotic rejected youth will endeavor to do his best in whatever way he can serve. If he is able to enter industry, he will go to night school, if possible, should his health permit, or try in some other way to keep learning and cultivating his best talents and abilities. He will spend a good portion of his earnings on war bonds and stamps. He won't waste his money and energies on luxuries and mere pleasures.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My boy four years old has two playmates, 23 months and three years, respectively. As many as ten times in a forenoon they say, "I am mad at you," and throw sand in my boy's eyes, tip over his bike, etc. How should I punish these playmates?

A. Don't try to discipline your neighbor's children. Since your child is so much older, he should learn to defend himself against these children. Encourage him to use his bare hands in doing so but don't allow him to throw sticks and stones. Unless he can take care of himself, let him retreat. His dad might show him how to use his fists in self-defense.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS.

Bids will be received by the undersigned at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Cumberland, Maryland, until 10 o'clock a. m. on the 7th day of December, 1942, for furnishing One Tractor Drawn (Motor to be Six or Twelve Cylinders) 85 ft. Aerial Truck equipped with ladder, pipe and Atlas net. The Mayor and City Council reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

AEF in Ireland Told To Disregard Beggars

Belfast, (AP) — Police court magistrates are imposing fines to discourage begging from United States troops in Northern Ireland.

When United States troops first landed in Northern Ireland youngsters often asked them for "pennies" and "nickels," and almost as often they were given some. Then children and even young men began begging and then almost demanding "quarters" and "half-dollars."

Finally, the practice became so prevalent that officers and enlisted men of the Northern Ireland command were forbidden to hand out money.

How to keep your rooms warm
The walls and roof of an uninsulated house are a sieve, scientists say. That's why you find it almost impossible to keep some rooms comfortable.
The only known effective cure is to insulate. Capitol Rock Wool creates uniform temperatures upstairs and down; eliminates drafts. In summer it cuts "bake-oven" temperatures 8° to 15°. The 20% to 40% fuel saving soon pays for the entire job.

WEAK KIDNEYS
For Better Health!
A Common Disease Generally Caused by Acid Condition in the Blood
The Source of Most Disorders; Mineral Deficiency in Our Foods, Often the Cause
Circles Under the Eyes, Gall Stones, Frequent Rising at Night
RHEUMATISM. Arthritis is a painful disease. It causes agony and misery. The cause, in general, is acid condition in the blood. The source of the cause often is mineral deficiency in the foods we eat. What is the remedy? . . . For thousands of years, people regarded MINERALS as the best remedy for Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuralgia, as well as diseases of the Stomach, Bladder and Kidneys. From ancient Greece, Egypt, Rome, China and India, down to the present day, year after year, people rush to the MINERAL SPRINGS to get relief.
THE BEST doctors, the most intelligent people, millionaires and laymen, Kings and Princes when attacked by Rheumatism, Gall Stones, Stomach, Kidney or Bladder trouble, prefer to go to Mineral Springs. In America we have the wonder Mineral Springs in Georgia, patronized by thousands year after year. In France is the Louvre and Aix Le Bains, and in Greece the very famous Spring of Thronion where, according to the legend, Hercules, the God of Strength and Youth, drank and bathed to rejuvenate; to be forever young.
Wonder Minerals
BIO-MINERAL is a combination of vitally important Minerals, blended by Nature for those suffering the agony of Rheumatism, Arthritis, Stomach and Kidney ailments. It comes from the depths of the earth — Nature's laboratory. Is NOT a Mineral Oil, physic or harmful drug. Contains NO alcohol—NO drugs—NO opiates—NO preservatives—NO oil. NOT a SINGLE habit forming ingredient. ONLY Natural, Life-Giving Minerals — these same minerals of the world's best springs in highly concentrated liquid form.
THE IMPORTANCE of Minerals for the good of our health, is so widely recognized today, that Doctors, Hospitals, Sanatoriums, Naturalists and the Government, urge the use of them. The warring nations bolster the health of their armed forces with minerals. Bakers enrich their flour with minerals and advertise it. In the press, in schools, in colleges, in churches, on the radio, everywhere, the cry is: MINERALS! . . . MINERALS!
Try it at Our Expense
ORDINARY cathartics are habit forming and never cure constipation. They force out the foods and digestive juices from your stomach and do not correct the cause of your trouble. If you suffer from Constipation, Gas-Toxins, Bloating, Weak Kidneys, etc., try a bottle of BIO-MINERAL. After 2 or 3 days, with your own eyes you may see wonderful results. BIO-MINERAL is not a physic and does not interfere with the natural foods in your stomach. It reaches down to the root—to the cause of your trouble, eliminating abnormal waste material, cleaning and purifying intestines thoroughly.
WHEN the poisons are out of your system, when the kidneys are purified, when the gas-toxins and bloating no longer remain in your stomach to cause acid condition in the blood, then you begin to feel your Arthritis leaving you as your Rheumatism saying good-bye. Nature is assisted to complete the recovery. Wise people go to MINERAL SPRINGS, and BIO-MINERAL is Minerals that you get at the best Mineral Springs.
IMPORTANT: Use common sense. As long as this product is absolutely harmless, and it is sold on a MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE, there is no reason in the world for not giving it a trial. To pass it up, you may miss the best opportunity to better your health.

This is a WARTIME THANKSGIVING
The first Thanksgiving was not observed in wholly peaceful times. For the Pilgrims were just establishing themselves in a new world, and the time was to be long until they no longer had to fight enemy tribes, privation and lack of adequate homes. But they were thankful for what shelter and food they had—and the fact that they were securing liberty for future generations gave them courage and hope.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

CHAPTER FORTY-EIGHT

DURING mid-afternoon a storm broke over the ocean. Gray, angry water rose in hissing waves to meet the torrents of rain. Lightning flashed from a black sky, and the thunder that followed seemed to rock the boat with its fury. All night they fought to keep the boat afloat and on its course. Link was hollowed-eyed, his face drawn with fatigue, and cursing in five tongues. He yelled once at Mary, who had come up in the early morning to watch the furious sea.

"Get below, you ——! You've got to be able to talk if we ever get there! Make us some more coffee!"

Mary fought her trembling way back down the swaying stairway. As she struggled to make coffee in the pitching cabin, she thought with cold fear, "So this is why I'm still alive—to tell what I know to someone. But who? Where?" Suddenly she stopped, tense with thought. They had passed Pedro, Laguna, San Diego. They were going south then, toward Mexico. Danver's words came back to her—that morning in his office, he had said, 'We are concerned with breaking the sabotage ring of one of the cleverest, most ruthless Nazi organizers. We learned he was hiding in Mexico several months ago when one of his famous marked maps was picked up at the border.

There was no doubt of it. Link was reporting to his superior—the notorious Von Zach, for whom every Allied country was searching. And she was going to some isolated Mexican stronghold as a prisoner, to be tortured probably into revealing her knowledge of the F. B. I. She tilted the dipper of coffee into the pot and poured on the boiling water, with a desperate attempt at Fran's insouciance. "Well, it's to be a short life, but I'll meet such interesting people!"

The thought of Fran brought tears to her eyes. This was to have been Fran's wedding day. Burke would go off to the Navy now without the wedding. What a shadow she had cast over their lives! And Ken. Good, dear old Ken. He would suffer over her misfortune, but be proud of her—as he carried on his job. She tried to push the flooding memories of Bruce from her but failed. He was innocent, she thought. Link's story had cleared him as it cleared Toinette. . . . Toinette, the "dumb," but Toinette, her heart added in painful justice, the beautiful.

A short lull in the afternoon brought in its wake another furious storm. At the height of it, Link stumbled down the stairs and lurched across the cabin for more coffee. He laughed with derision at Mary's transparently white face and tear-dimmed eyes.

"Scared of the storm, eh?"

Mary pushed his coffee across the pitching table.

"No," she smiled wanly. "Why should I be afraid of anything—now?"

Then as he drank, she gripped the edge of the table and said hesitantly, "There's one thing I'd like to know. Just a—silly thing, I guess."

He shrugged, "Shoot."

"What day next week are Toinette and Bruce getting married?"

He selected an imported biscuit from its tin box, then gave her a thin-lipped smile. "You were carrying a torch for him, weren't you? Sure, I'll tell you. No day."

"No day?" puzzled Mary.

"That newspaper article was my idea," he said sardonically. "I wanted him tied up to her so I could hold Uncle Albert in Berlin over his head, too. He was getting too independent. But the gag didn't work. He wouldn't marry her."

As Mary stared at him, his cruel, sharp face seemed lighted with kindness, the lunching cabin a place of beauty.

"He—wouldn't—marry her!" she whispered. She sat on the bench opposite Link, peace flooding through her in a glorious tide. He loved her then. Bruce loved her. She would never see him again. But he loved her! The knowledge would go with her through her coming trials like a triumphal paean. Nothing—even death—could change this!

Link and the boatman took turns snatching naps during that wretched afternoon. Toward evening the rain changed to a whipping gale. Link came up to Mary, standing by the rail wrapped in an oilskin coat, her hair blowing about the small white oval of her face. "See that light over on the shoreline?"

She nodded. She had been watching it for some time.

"We land about five miles below." His voice was high pitched, rapid again. "Nasty storm, but it may have saved us from some nosey Coast Guardsman."

Mary's heart chilled in fresh apprehension. She asked through stiff lips. "What if I won't—talk?"

He laughed sharply. "You'll talk, sister. I've never seen anybody that guy couldn't make talk—plenty." He moved back then to take over the wheel, and the boat swung in toward the gray shoreline. Their small, powerful searchlight found the private landing pier. They moved slowly in beside it.

The wind almost blew them off their feet as Link pulled Mary up onto the dock. "Fasten it good!" he called back to the boatman. Then he reached for Mary.

But Mary had taken to her heels. She was running across the white arc of sand, using every ounce of strength in a desperate attempt at escape. She heard his sharp, taunting laugh as he came after her.

His shouted command, "Come back here, you little fool!"

The sand clutched at her feet, her breath tore through her lungs in hot, ragged gasps as she pushed herself on through the whipping wind. If she could only get away—get word to Danver! She raised her head once and paused with a gasp of dismay. Just ahead of her the low outlines of an enormous hacienda sprawled in a tree-darkened cove. And the figure of a man was running from it toward her. She veered off to the left and made for the shelter of the trees.

But her hesitation proved fatal. Link's steely fingers closed on her arm, yanked her to a stop. He stood there panting, his grin sadistic.

"You—little—demon!" He raised his hand, struck her across the face, then turned to the man from the house. "Take her to the guardhouse and keep an eye on her," he ordered.

"I will."

At the words, Mary and Link whirled together to face the newcomer.

"Bruce!" Mary had only time to step back before the battle was on. She leaned against a tree for support as her knees threatened to buckle under her. This was a dream—seeing Bruce here—hearing the brutal thud of driving blows—the gasps and grunts of the two locked in desperate, rolling struggle here in the dark shadowed cove—of Von Zach's headquarters!

And then it was over. Somehow she was in Bruce's arms and he was crying, "Mary! Are you all right, Mary?"

"Yes, yes," she gasped, "but Bruce, there's Von Zach! Link was coming here to see him! That house must be his headquarters!"

She was bewildered when he laughed and rumpled her hair tenderly. "What a little fighter you turned out to be! But relax, redhead," he said with a grin. "You're not No. 1 agent for the F. B. I. any longer. I undermined you! Von Zach is in the Caliente jail. You'll only get second honors with your prisoner!"

She stared at him, completely bewildered. "You caught Von Zach!"

He stooped to pick up a handful of white sand from the ground beside them, letting it trickle slowly through his fingers. "This is the stuff that caught him," he said. "It's the whitest and finest sand on the west coast. A mechanic in the Caliente garage remembered brushing it out of my car each time after Link had borrowed it."

"And you came down here with the F. B. I." thrilled Mary, to capture the powerful Von Zach?"

"That was incidental," grinned Bruce. "I came down to find you. Been waiting here for two hours. Thought you'd never come.

He kissed her again, then led her through the trees to a landing field, where several Mexican officers waited beside an American pursuit plane. Mary's heart beat with pride as he called to them to bring in the unconscious Link. His slouching, arrogant walk had given way to an alert stride. He put her into the plane beside the pilot's seat and leaned forward to give her a flashing smile.

"Fran and Burke came along to Caliente," he said. "They want to get married tonight, have a honeymoon tomorrow, so Burke can go into the Navy on Monday. Fran said she was willing to make it a double wedding."

Mary smiled tremulously, and nodded. "So we can go back to Nordex Monday," she whispered.

Boys Lead Elders In Hunting Big Game

CARLSBAD, N. M. (AP)—A 13- and a 14-year-old boy were two of New Mexico's most successful big game hunters in the 1942 season.

Bob Rodolph, 13, dropped a 14-point buck at 150 yards on a hunting trip with his father and two friends. He was the only member of the party to bring in the meat.

Fourteen-year-old Ray Forehand brought down a four-point deer at 200 yards with a 30-30 rifle that he was using for the first time. He fired three shots and each bullet found the target.

Most United States sailors come from inland localities.

Weather's So Secret Weatherman Is Fooled

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma City air base soldiers thought they had figured out a clever but secret way of reading the early morning weather forecasts (long since forbidden on broadcasts) so that they might dress to meet the day's conditions.

The soldiers waited until members of the weather forecasting squadron came off of night duty. They observed closely what they were wearing. If it were raincoats, the soldiers donned oilskins; if it were shirtsleeves, they went without coats.

"But it doesn't work," the men complained. "Those fellows are always getting caught in the rain without raincoats!"

Shortage of wages and harness makers and horseshoeing facilities is impeding increased use of horse-drawn vehicles, the department of Commerce says.

Theaters Today

"For Me and My Gal" Stars Judy Garland

Judy Garland and clever players of today carry audiences back to the glories of the vaudeville of yesterday, in a vivid romance with the varieties as a glittering background, in "For Me and My Gal," now showing at the Maryland theater. The picture serves to introduce to the screen Gene Kelly, New York stage sensation in "Pal Joey," as her latest partner. Miss Garland plays her first adult role and aside from intriguing song and dance appearances has poignant dramatic episodes which she handles compellingly.

The story opens in small time vaudeville in 1915 with Miss Garland as a young singer, Kelly as a clown juggler. They find a song hit, become partners, fall in love, and vow to marry when they achieve that ambition of all vaudevillians, and play the Palace theater in New York.

Their courtship is amid various vaudeville acts in various theaters. Then the World war starts, and Kelly is called on the eve of their triumph, a Palace engagement. Desperate, he tries to delay the call by injuring his hand; is renounced by Miss Garland, whose brother has been killed in France, and finally redeems himself overseas, where she has gone as an entertainer, by an act of supreme heroism.

"The Lady Has Plans" Stars Paulette Goddard

Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland have the leading roles in "The Lady Has Plans," currently at the Garden theater. The cast includes Roland Young, Albert Dekker, Margaret Hayes, Cecil Kellaway and Addison Richards.

Also on the Garden Program today is "The Mayor of Forty-fourth Street," with George Murphy, Anne Shirley, Richard Barthelmess and Freddy Martin and his orchestra.

BING AND DOT MOROCCO-BOUND

Bing Crosby seems to be in an Arabian doghouse with luscious Dorothy Lamour, but it's only a temporary condition. They get together romantically in Paramount's "Road to Morocco," now at the Strand theater, in spite of — or maybe because of — the presence of Bob Hope who has lovelorn ideas about the princess himself. A million-and-one gags are said to pave "Road to Morocco" with more laughs than either "Road to Singapore" or "Road to Zanzibar." And there's music, too.

Bing Crosby, Bob Hope Clown On and Off Sets

When Bing Crosby and Bob Hope work together on a picture, the off-the-sound-track dialogue crackles like a forest fire in a high wind. Both boys are right in there pitching all the time trying to outsmart each other.

Through much of their current picture, Paramount's "Road to Morocco" which co-stars them once again with Dorothy Lamour, now showing at the Strand theater, Hope goes native Moroccan in costume. He wears full harem pants, satin blouses and a sash around his middle. The reason for this get-up is that, whereas both Bob and Bing get shipwrecked on the north coast of Africa, it is Bob who becomes involved with a Moroccan princess (Dorothy Lamour) early in the story. She plans to marry him and dresses him up for the part.

Because Bing didn't have to dress like an Arabian fashion plate except for a couple of scenes, between takes he rode Hope unmercifully about the latter's gorgeousness. A circumstance which added to Crosby's ammunition was that the excessive yardage used in an Arabian costume increases the girth of its wearer. So Bing lost no time in accusing Bob of putting on weight.

"After this picture you're going to be known as the man with the balloons fore and aft," he informed Bob during an exchange of pleasantries.

"Well," replied Bob, "you've always been known as the little fat man who sings."

"That may be, that may be," laughed Bing, "but do you know what you look like right now?" A bunch of old tired laundry."

"And you look like the bag for it," came back Hope, who makes a fast recovery. Then they shook hands and started in all over again.

There is one house in New York City without a number. It is Park Avenue at Thirty-fourth street, N. E., it once was One Park avenue, but when that number was given to another building, the owners refused to accept a substitute number.

Between 1940 and 1941, the number of hospital beds in the United States increased by 98,000.

Tonga islands or Friendly islands, British protectorate in the South Pacific, have a native queen, Salote Tubou, who succeeded her father, George II, in April, 1938.

Representative J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg, who was elected to the House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional district in the general election, has returned from Baltimore where he attended dinner in the Southern hotel with 400 Republicans from all over Maryland.

Chief speaker at the dinner, held on the forty-second birthday of Theodore R. McKeldin, recent Republican nominee for governor of Maryland, was U. S. Senator H. H. Burton, Republican senator from Ohio. He criticized the "orgy of New Deal useless spending in Washington."

Beall and Don Ellison, the latter recently elected to Congress from the Fourth district of Baltimore, were given ovations at the dinner. Mr. and Mrs. McKeldin were presented a chest of silver in appreciation for the showing of the Republican nominee in the gubernatorial election.

Former State Senator William A. Gunter, Cumberland, presided at the dinner. Others attending from Allegany county were G. Keer Hoskin and Delegate Milton Dick.

haven't been scored on since mid-October.

Virginia Tech over Virginia Military: The choice would have been reversed if Joe Muha were in shape.

Wake Forest over South Carolina: The Gamecocks have scored only once in their last three games.

Colorado over Denver: Jim Yeager's club too strong.

Utah over Idaho: The Big Seven champions to beat a Coast conference foe.

Saturday's Games

Army over Navy: Despite its 50-50 record Navy is one of the East's better teams, but Army has too much speed for its service rival and should triumph for the first time since 1938.

Georgia over Georgia Tech: After the rude awakening Auburn gave the Bulldogs last Saturday they will be hard to handle, especially on their home field. But Clint Castleberry could make this guess look very silly.

Boston college over Holy Cross: A former Holy Cross team once opposed Boston College as the 10 to 1 underdog—and won easily. This time, however, the Eagles will be out to protect their unbeaten status.

Southern California over Notre Dame: A late-starting Trojan team and the long train ride will be just a shade too much for the Irish.

Michigan over Iowa: Third place in the Big Ten goes to the Wolverines.

Tennessee over Vanderbilt: If the Vols were starting their season now instead of finishing it, they probably would go through undefeated.

Iowa Navy over Ohio State: These pro-studded Navy clubs are just too strong, especially when collegians have played their traditional rivals the week before.

Georgia Navy over Alabama: Despite the Tide's defense.

North Carolina Navy over Fordham: Lieut.-Com. James Crowley's homecoming to be complete.

Michigan State over Oregon State: The Beavers went all out to beat Oregon last Saturday and "recuperated" by taking a train ride.

Nebraska over Kansas State: The Huskers aren't that bad.

Rice over Baylor: They are both in the title race and anything can happen—but we figure it is likely to happen to Baylor.

Lumping all the rest: Texas Christian over Southern Methodist, Detroit over Oklahoma A. and M., Auburn over Clemson, Duke over Jacksonville Navy, Indiana over Fort Knox, Illinois over Camp Grant, West Virginia over Miami.

Officials: Referee—Jones (Michigan). Umpire—Cubbon (West Virginia). Head Linesman—Kyle (West Virginia). Time of game—2:30. Place—Fort Hill stadium.

The traditional Thanksgiving day football classic scheduled this afternoon at the Fort Hill stadium between the Allegany High School Campers and the Fort Hill High Sentinels will find the two unbeaten local rivals battling it out for the Cumberland Valley Athletic League and city championships. The kickoff will be at 2:30.

A crowd of at least 6,000 is expected to turn out for the struggle. Allegany students and followers will occupy the west stands while Fort Hill's supporters will sit in the wooden stands on the east side of the field. The gates will open at 1 p. m.

Officials urge that holders of reserve seat tickets get to the stadium before 2:15 so that the crowd is settled by game time. The combined bands of both schools, a total of over 100 musicians, will play "The Star Spangled Banner" as the flag is raised at the start of the contest.

A number of reserved seat tickets were unsold last night but all are expected to be gone by game time. Parking facilities will be found in the rear of the school building, officials said.

Pep Rallies Held

Pep rallies were conducted at both schools yesterday but annual bonfire celebrations were abandoned at Allegany. At Fort Hill, an alumni and student rally was held last night.

Rain during the last few days has left the field soft and even if the game is played under a warm sun, the footing is likely to be a little uncertain.

Both teams will be at full strength, according to Coaches Herman Ball of Allegany and Bill Hahn of Fort Hill. By comparative scores, the Campers appear to be two touchdowns stronger than the Sentinels despite the Hilltoppers' unbeaten record but odds in the past proved an unreliable barometer and today's series renewal may develop into another hard-fought encounter.

Allegany needs a win or a tie to retain the CVAL crown. Should the contest end in a deadlock, then Fort Hill's recent tie with Hagerstown — the only blemish on the Sentinels' record — would prevent the Hahnmen from sharing the crown.

In the city title chase, Allegany and Fort Hill both registered triumphs over the LaSalle Explorers in the three-school race and everything will depend on the result of today's skirmish.

Snyder Seeks Record

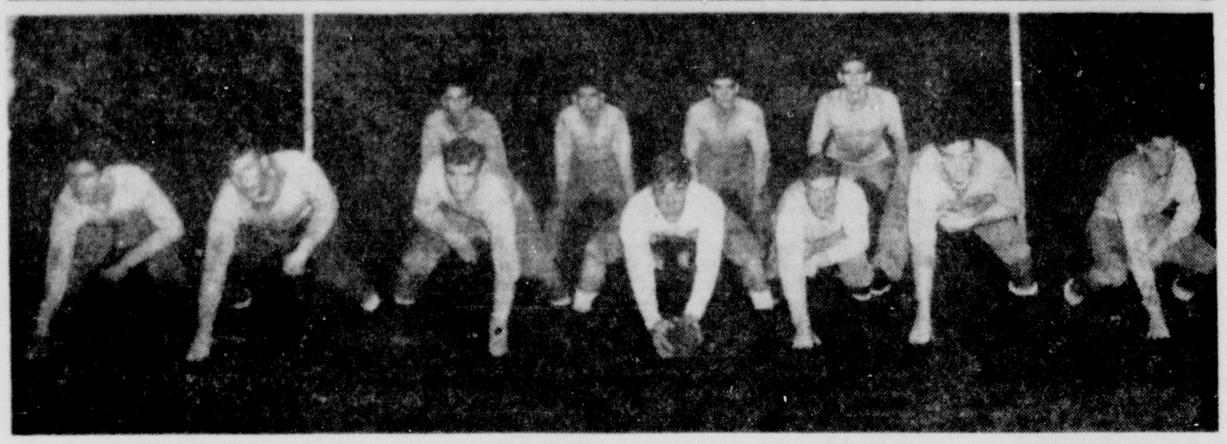

Don Snyder, Allegany high fullback, and Robert "Skinny" Martin, Fort Hill halfback, are expected to furnish most of the offensive fireworks. Snyder, who won the individual city scoring championship last season, will be shooting for a new modern record. In eight games, the Camper ace has tallied 108 points and needs only seven more to better the mark of 114 established in 1935 by Derl Keller of Penn Avenue high.

Snyder also leads CVAL scorers and is heavily favored to cop both point-getting crowns. Martin is running second in the city race, having given way to Snyder several weeks ago after grabbing the lead midway in the season. Martin has made fifteen touchdowns to Snyder's thirteen but the latter has booted twenty-seven extra points and a field goal for a fourteen point edge.

Allegany has been made a slight favorite due to its better offensive record. However, Fort Hill will present a great defensive record, having yielded only one touchdown this season. The Campers have scored 300 points to Fort Hill's 269 but have allowed thirty-two markers to the Sentinels' half-dozen.

LOCAL RIVALS CLASH FOR CITY AND CVAL TITLES

The Allegany High Campers and the Fort Hill High Sentinels, with each team undefeated this season, will battle it out this afternoon at 2:30 at the Fort Hill stadium for the 1942 city and Cumberland Valley Athletic League championships.

Mont Is Certain To Finish Third Among Passers

Maryland Quarterback Has Completed 66 of 127 Attempts

COLLEGE PARK, Nov. 25.—Tommy Mont, Maryland's crafty forward passing and kicking quarterback, seems certain to finish third among the tossers of the country. When he completed fourteen of twenty-one heaves against Washington and Lee last Saturday for 197 yards, he ran his completions to sixty-six out of 127 attempts for 1,076 yards, a mark that at present is eclipsed only by Paul Governali of Columbia and Frankie Sinkwich of Georgia.

Mont, also, has averaged better than thirty-eight yards in punting and would be a fine rusher if his duties in Clark Shaughnessy's "T" set-up didn't restrict his running with the ball. About all he is allowed to do on this score is to pull the "quarterback sneak" when a few yards are needed.

Value to Team Is Enormous

Mont's value to the Maryland team, and what might have happened to it during the season without him, was exemplified in the 32-28 triumph over Washington and Lee in the Old Liners' finale last Saturday. With Mont running the machine, Maryland scored three times in the first ten minutes, marching to touchdowns each time it got its hands on the ball.

When he went out late in the first quarter, Washington and Lee soon got a touchdown, although Maryland was in possession of the ball on its own thirty-yard line when he was relieved. Maryland then proceeded to lose about ten

Mike Holovak Is On Grid Rampage

Boston College Ace Takes Second in Yards Gained by Rushing

By DAVE HOFF

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 (AP) — Mike Holovak, one of several good reasons why Boston college is rated the nation's No. 1 football team, finally is getting statistical confirmation of the great job he's doing.

Now the second highest player in individual rushing, Mike can reflect on one of the season's most sensational advances as he looks back to his comparatively low rating of eighteenth on Oct. 10.

The American Football Statistical Bureau reported today that Holovak's mark of 150 yards rushing against Boston university last Saturday vaulted him from fifth to second place, although it's doubtful if he'll ever reach the top spot. Mike is still trailing the leading ground-gainer, Rudolph (Little Doc) Mobley of Hardin-Simmons, by 280 yards.

In eight games Mobley, already accredited with a record-smashing total offense figure for the season, has picked up 1,173 yards on the ground. Holovak's splurge in recent weeks leaves him with a total of 893 yards rushing for the same number of games.

On the total offense front it's still all Frankie Sinkwich of Georgia, who last week wiped out the old record of 1,928 yards set by Bud Schwenk of Washington U. (St. Louis) in 1941. Sinkwich ran his string of yards to 1,995, only five short of the coveted 2,000-yard figure — once considered an unattainable high. He has one game yet to play.

Late-Starting Trojans Appear Too Much for Notre Dame

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP)—Getting the final football selections out of the way while the turkey still is in the oven:

Thanksgiving Day Games

Tulane over Louisiana State: Lou Thomas to outshine Alvin Dark and therefore Tulane to spill Louisiana State although the edge is thinner than a drug-store sandwich.

Tulsa over Arkansas: The Oklahomans have come this far without being tied or beaten so it is unlikely they will crumble before a Southwest Conference foe that has gone without a win or a draw in its own loop.

William and Mary over Richmond: Here's where Johnson, Ramsey and Company clinch the Southern Conference flag.

Pennsylvania over Cornell: The wise men say that the Quakers again are the team they were early in the season and that they will be too strong even for Wally Kretz.

Missouri over Kansas: Ray Evans, one of the country's better passers, is Kansas's main threat but hardly enough to keep Missouri from its second straight Big Six crown.

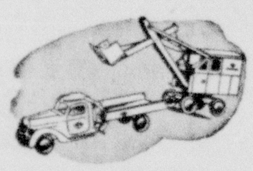

Texas over Texas A. and M.: Picking the Longhorns but not by the 23 to 0 margin by which they won a year ago.

Colgate over Brown: Brown hasn't been the same since the Princeton contest.

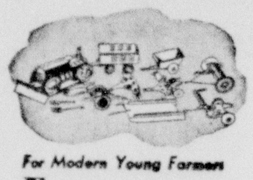

Great Lakes over Northwestern: The end of a dismal year for the Big Ten Wildcats. The Sailors

Army Is Made 2 to 5 Favorite over Navy

Middies To Have Edge in Weight In Service Game

Tars Hold Secret Practice but Annapolis Natives Yawn

By SID FEDER

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 25 (AP)—Navy's footballers went into hiding today, along about the time the bookmakers in these parts established Army's well-drilled machine a 2 to 5 favorite in Saturday's transplanted service scramble.

Now, this is not to say that the betting odds drove the Middies under cover. It was only that Coach Billick Whelchel wanted secret practice — and he wasn't kidding. He put his boys behind lock and key — and then threw the key away for the rest of the week. You had as much chance of taking a peek at the Middies at work as you had of getting samples from the mint.

Although no one could quite figure out what it was Billick could show his boys in the last three days that they hadn't learned in two months of gridironing, the practice field was guarded like the last pound of coffee in your Aunt Emma's pantry. Midshipman managers and regular naval academy guards patrolled the place and were ready to put the finger on any "suspicious characters", like working sports writers for instance, who came within shouting distance.

Annapolis Natives Yawn

Now, all this mystery may have provided some excitement for the folks in the immediate neighborhood, but the natives of Annapolis, being a hardy lot, were about as steamed up over it as over the horse trough in church circle, despite the fact that the practice gates were locked about the same time as the naval academy announced Saturday's probable starting lineups. These showed a surprisingly close statistical set-up between the two. Navy had a slight edge in over-all weight, with an average of 185¼ pounds per man to 183½. But Army's sturdy forces had the bulge where it counted — down the line, with a par per man of 193½ to the Middies' 188½ in the forward wall.

Throughout the recent proceedings that transplanted this vest-pocket edition of the service classic right into their own back yard for the first time in half-a-century, the local citizenry has shown it can take its extravaganzas — or leave 'em alone.

May Not Be Sellout

Around and about, in the neighborhood barber shops and soda emporiums, there was considerable buzzing over the game, but the man on the street was hardly worked up past the yawning stage over the whole thing. In fact, unofficial communiques from the turnstile headquarters indicated there might not even be a sellout of all the 20,000 seats in Thompson stadium when the gun goes off Saturday. You have to agree this is hardly maintaining the proud service tussle, that usually plays to 100,000 crowd, in the style to which it has become accustomed.

Army's squad was due here Friday to meet its Navy game mule—borrowed from Farmer Bausum down the road a piece — for the first time. Just what the Cadet plans were, no one seemed quite sure. The Navy has invited the West Pointers to stay at the Academy, but it was reported Red Blaik and his boys may feel more at home if they operate out of the army base at nearby Fort Meade.

Mont Is Certain

yards on three plays and to have a kick blocked to give the Generals their first marker. Mont came back in the second quarter and tossed for a touchdown to make the score, 26-7, at the half, and also engineered Maryland's final score.

A pop-up fumble that setup a seventy-yard run and two long passes gave Washington and Lee its other three scores in the last half to make the game close and exciting, but fans are wondering just what the count might have been had Mont stayed at the helm constantly in the first half and kept the Old Liners rolling instead of backfiring.

May Not Play in 1943

Whether Mont will play any football next fall now is problematical. He is a junior, but under the stepped up program of three semesters a year instead of two, he will be graduated about next October 10 with an R.O.T.C. reserve commission rating. This would allow him, as well as the other juniors on the football squad, to be on hand for only three games. Included in this category are Bob James, end; Jack Dittmar, tackle, Tony Nardo, guard; Jack Wright, Bill Helbock, Lou Chacos, George Barnes, and Jack Brenner, backs.

Seniors who finish at the end of the present semester in February are Jack Gilmore, end; Luther Conred and Reggy Vincent, tackles; George Jarmoska, guard; and Elmer Rigby, Jack Miler, Joe Hoopengardner, and Lou Chacos, backs.

Conrad is colonel of the R.O.T.C. regiment, and Gilmore and Vincent are lieutenant colonels. All the others are officers.

Lardner, after Tapping Phone Wires, Gives New Year's Day Bowl Lineup

By JOHN LARDNER

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—All kinds of bowl problems will be settled tomorrow and Saturday of this week. There is even a chance—though it sounds like romantic fantasy—that the Pacific Coast Conference will find a Rose bowl candidate to defend the honor of the Western littoral. Bringing order out of chaos in the Coast league as early as November 28 is a miraculous feat, but Washington State may do it.

The Washington State team, if it beats the Washington Huskies, will have a league record of six wins and one defeat, and no other team in the conference will be able to match that.

Southern California, which can finish with five victories, one loss, and one tie if all goes well from now till December 12, might put up a late and anguished objection on the ground that it beat Washington State. U.C.L.A. can get home with a record of five and one, if it licks Southern California.

My information is, however, that the Coast executives are trying to keep their nomination out of the hands of the lawyers and will make a quick choice if they have any chance to do so.

Here's a Winner

If Washington beats Washington State this Saturday, there will be no selection till the middle of December. It will ball everything up: A sure indication, to your correspondent's shrewd mind, that Washington will beat Washington State.

Georgia Tech, Georgia, Boston college, Tulsa, and Texas, all possibilities for bowls, will end their seasons this week. So will Tennessee, a strong-finishing dark horse. Marquette, considered in some quarters to be another pony of shadowy complexion, has already signed off.

The terrific colossal epic of Atlanta, Ga., booked for Saturday and bringing together Georgia and Georgia Tech, was sabotaged to a slight extent last week when the Auburn team neglected to read Frankie Sinkwich's scrapbook.

Georgia is beaten, and the panorama will be further disfigured, from the bowl promoters' viewpoint, if Georgia beats Georgia Tech—as may well happen. In that event, the twin Southern powerhouses will take what bids they can get. Each will doubtless be invited somewhere. If Georgia Tech wins, of course, the world of bowls is her oyster.

Boston college winds up regular business this week with Holy Cross. Holy Cross is fully capable of pulling an Auburn, if the Eagles are not careful. However, the Eagles are apt to be careful, and the opinion of New England observers is that Boston college cannot be beaten.

Success will automatically install B. C. in the Sugar bowl, where it whipped Tennessee two years ago. By way of warming up, the Eagles are contemplating a game with the Chicago Bears. If it comes off, it will be the first time the Bears have served as a bullpen catcher.

Tulsa plays Arkansas Thanksgiving day, and will probably win and sit back to wait for the telephone to ring. Tennessee, after bludgeoning Vanderbilt Saturday, will be receptive to suggestions from the Orange and Cotton bowls. Penn State seems to be the only Eastern team outside Boston college with

Many Maryland Stables To Pass Up Winter Tracks

Transportation Difficulties, Labor Conditions Are Reasons

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 25 (AP)—Several of Maryland's leading stables, taking note of transportation difficulties and labor conditions at the winter tracks, let it be known today that they plan to pass up the resort tracks this year.

As a result, the Free State will have fewer representatives at the winter tracks such as Hialeah Park, Tropical Park and the Fair Grounds than at any time since winter racing gained a firm foothold in the '20s.

Among the Maryland outfits which shipped to Miami or other racing centers last December, but which plan to spend the cold months at home this year, are William L. Brann, Cedar Farm, Danny Shea, Victor P. Noyes, Raymond Archer, Inwood stable and H. Guy Bedwell.

Pimlico is expected to be well populated during the winter and in addition to the Maryland stables expected to put in the next three months there, several out-of-state trainers who are passing up Miami and New Orleans plan to stable their runners at Pimlico.

When the Bowie meeting ends Saturday, Trainer Ed Christmas is expected to move the Brann horses, including Challedon and Pictor, to the Glade valley farm near Walkersville.

Guy Bedwell doesn't plan to "put up" his farm near Savage until after the eighteen-day meeting at Charles Town, opening Monday. It will be the first time Bedwell has visited the West Virginia track, although he has sent horses to former meetings in the care of trainers.

Both Danny Shea and Victor P. Noyes now are in the army and their racing activities, as a result, are at more or less of a standstill.

Yank's George Selkirk Enlists in the Navy

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP)—The New York Yankees announced today that George Selkirk, veteran outfielder, has enlisted in the navy and will report for duty Sunday.

The Big Weekend

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 25.—The next three days will tell more than one major football story. For this is one of the big weekends of the season. As a starter Thanksgiving day will be full of action and, after a day's rest, Saturday's schedule will settle the ranking of the year, including more than one sectional title. Looking back a few weeks, the Pennsylvania-Cornell meeting at Franklin field looked to be a soft spot for the Red and Blue.

It doesn't look that way today. Around four weeks ago Pennsylvania looked to be at least five touchdowns better than the Big Red team from Ithaca.

Since that time Cornell has moved up and Penn has slipped. Now they are pegged about on a par.

With some of her earlier injured backs in action Cornell is a new team, a far better team than it was through the first few weeks.

The main question concerning Pennsylvania is whether the Red and Blue can shake off its late lethargy and go back to work.

If this should happen, Pennsylvania should have the edge. But changing mental attitudes are hard to figure.

Among other major games tomorrow we find Tulsa and Arkansas, plus Texas and Texas A. and M.

Tulsa, still unbeaten, had a hard afternoon against Creighton last Saturday. At the same time Arkansas had one of her best days in beating Detroit. Tulsa has a fine team, headed by Glenn Dobbs, but the pressure is on the Golden Hurricane not on Arkansas.

Unbeaten so far, Tulsa is sure to play one of the leading roles in bowl selections if Henry Franka's team can remain unwhipped, where so few are left in this happy solitude.

In the big time brackets there are only three such teams now and it is quite possible that both Boston college and Georgia Tech may stumble on Saturday against strong opposition.

Tulsa has one of the season's better teams, plus an exceptional passer in Dobbs.

But in these final games more than a few unbeaten teams have found the burden too heavy to carry that Last Long Mile.

Among other important games we find Texas facing Texas A. and M. in one of the hotter Southwest rivalries.

This game will play a big part in recording the Southwest championship with Texas favored.

These Texas-Texas A. and M. games usually work against the docile dope, but there would be no big upset either way.

The old fashioned clash between LSU and Tulane is always a thriller, no matter what has gone before.

This time they are evenly matched. Both have been in and out, up and down, back and forth all season—moving from victory to defeat or vice-versa at top speed.

There is little choice here, beyond a guess.

Brown and Colgate have their annual party all set with Colgate rated in front.

The Red Raiders at their best are something to beat, while Brown's casualty list hasn't helped her a bit.

Missouri and Kansas bring out another old fashioned meeting with Missouri favored in spite of injuries.

Northwestern probably has the hardest game of the day in facing Great Lakes, now roaring along.

With Bruce Smith and others all steamed up, this Great Lakes delegation is now up around the front.

Saturday remains the big day with Army meeting Navy, Boston college meeting Holy Cross and Georgia attempting to regain her fading heritage from Georgia Tech.

These will be three important affairs in football's world.

Army and Boston college are generally favored among coaches and other experts, but few seem to be rushing in headlong to make the Georgia-Georgia Tech selection.

Holy Cross is physically equipped to give B. C. a terrific afternoon if her squad puts on its usual last game stand against the high flying Eagles.

In the case of Georgia and Georgia Tech the margin now looks to be too thin for the naked eye to see.

CAUSE TO GIVE THANKS

BRIDGE OFFERS its devotees many occasions to give thanks. Everybody likes a bunch of aces, kings and nice long solid suits when he is playing rubbers. All players enjoy seeing suits break right for them and finesses work. Each can get a kick out of doing something very pretty in the bidding or the play. But there is a special cause for rejoicing when an opponent does something which gives you a chance to score better on a deal than you should. Are you duly thankful when this happens?

♠ 9 4 ♥ K J 10 5 ♦ 7 2 ♣ A 8 6 3 2	N W E S	♠ 6 2 ♥ 9 ♦ A Q J 9 5 4 ♣ J 7 5 4
	♠ K J 10 8 5 ♥ A 7 6 2 ♦ K 6 3 ♣ 10

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	2 ♦	4 ♠

After that short and sweet bidding, North was apparently in just as much of a hurry to play the hand—for which East and West were truly grateful. The heart 9 was the opening lead. Seeing that this would make his own Q a sure trick winner, no matter who held the K, he ducked in dummy, and the K won. West led back his heart J, having read the lead as a possible singleton. North covered and East ruffed with the spade 2. Next he led the diamond A, but West gave him the 2, so he shifted to the club 4. When the A won that, West led a third heart for a ruff by the spade 6. North was down two before he himself took a single trick.

Simple thought should have told North East probably was not leading from the heart K, but might have been leading a singleton. If he had won that trick with dummy's A and scored the spade A and K, he could have led through West's almost surely marked heart K toward his Q without risking a ruff. Playing thus, he would have lost tricks only to the heart K and the two minor aces, and would have made his contract.

What are the two contrasting kinds of forcing passes which are illustrated by correct bidding of this deal?

Stock Prices Improve at Close Of Day Marked by Dull Trading

But Average Is Up only Slightly; Bond Prices Better

By BERNARD S. O'HARA

NEW YORK, Nov. 25. (AP)—Cross currents again ruled in the stock market today but there was a general tendency toward improvement near the close.

Final prices were lower by fractions for the steels, aircrafts and some of the other heavy industry shares and moderately higher for the rails, rubbers and an assortment of specialties. The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced .2 of a point to 39.7. Transactions totaled 565,470 shares against 636,490 Tuesday.

Case pushed up 3¼ points after announcement of a $4 disbursement, bringing payments for 1942 to $7, as in 1941.

Eastman Kodak, Philip Morris, American Can, Allied Chemical, United Fruit, Goodrich, Goodyear, Johns-Manville and Pan American airways showed final gains of fractions to around a point.

Losers included Bethlehem Steel, Republic, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, Sperry, Curtiss Wright, American Telephone, Kennecott and Westinghouse.

The best of the rails were Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line.

In the Curb improvement was recorded for Aluminum of America, American Gas and Electric and Creole Petroleum. Humble Oil, Gulf Oil and American Cyanamid slipped. Transfers here were 121,680 shares against 126,080 yesterday.

Bond market prices hardened in spots as selling pressure let up in the rails and selective demand appeared for other corporate issues. Gains of 1 to 2 points in some Mexican loans stood out in the foreign department.

The Associated Press average of twenty rails gave up .2 of a point compared with a drop of .7 the day before and .5 on Monday. The 10 foreign bonds in the index advanced .1 to 53.1, right under the 1942 high of 53.2. The other components were unchanged. Sales of $8,064,900 par value, compared with $8,796,900 on Tuesday.

Allegany County Group Is Organized for War Emergency

BALTIMORE, Nov. 25 (AP)—Thomas P. McNulty Jr., director of the War Emergency Radio Service of the Maryland Council of Defense, said today that the "Ham" organization in Allegany county was ready to function and organization of the system in Washington and Frederick counties already was under way.

In Allegany county, he said, the War Vocational Training Service was co-operating with the Emergency Radio Service in making short-wave transmitters and receivers for use by the amateurs.

He said that a request would be sent out to school children throughout the county to help collect old radio sets, the parts of which could be used to make the short-wave sets.

Women in Cumberland and the county were particularly interested in the organization, McNulty added, and many requests for enrollment had been received from them.

McNulty returned today from a three-day visit to the three counties to discuss the organization of the radio system which is designed to function when all other communications fail, with civilian defense heads and local amateur radio operators.

THANKSGIVING MELODY WILL BE SUBJECT OF SERMON TONIGHT

"A Thanksgiving Melody" is the subject selected by Betty Weakland for her sermon tonight at 7:45 in the First Baptist church. The annual Thanksgiving service at 10 o'clock will be observed as usual when the Rev. Edwin W. Saylor will preach.

Speaking on "The Feeding of the Five Thousand," the girl preacher declared that this great miracle was performed in a desert place, the definition of which is a barren, desolate and forsaken place.

"Whenever it gets noised about that Jesus is in a certain place the multitudes will throng to see Him and see His works manifest," Miss Weakland said.

Miss Weakland told the story of the miracle through which Christ fed the large crowd which had followed Him into the desert where He had gone in search of peace and rest from the tumult of His preaching in the cities. She said this story was important for it was recorded four times in the Bible.

"The secret of success is to bring all that you have to Jesus," Miss Weakland said. "You can take a grain of corn to a chemist and from your knowledge of its composition you can make another grain of corn which looks just like the first. Plant the two kernels side by side under the same sunshine and the same rain. One will grow and the other will not because only the first kernel has life.

"Jesus Christ is very life and if you bring yourself to Him, He will give you His more abundant life, place His blessing upon you and through you He may feed thousands."

Coffee Is Included

Noted among the commodities piled in the Associated Charities office were several pounds of coffee, sugar, bottled and canned milk, several stalks of celery, a goodly supply of potatoes, butter, bread, chickens, carrots, apples, fresh cranberries, sweet potatoes and many other things essential to the Thanksgiving dinner.

"Yes, there are more needy families today than most people would have us believe," Miss Bonig commented.

She explained that in spite of the many opportunities offered nowadays for work in war industries, stores, etc., there are still many of the older persons who are unable to work because of physical handicaps.

Praises Contributors

"The work of the high school students, Girl Scouts and other interested parties in making it possible for these less fortunate families and individuals to enjoy Thanksgiving is a good deed and I know those who benefit by this kindness are greatly appreciative," concluded Miss Bonig.

Americans Have Many Blessings, Minister Asserts

No Better Time for Thanksgiving, Dr. Sharp Tells Kiwanians

Taking issue with the skeptics who say that in these perilous times Americans have nothing to be thankful for, the Rev. Dr. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, told his fellow Kiwanians at a dinner meeting in the Central Y. M. C. A. last night that "we have much to be thankful for", adding that "we have more blessings to be thankful for than we can comprehend."

Speaking on the subject "Sincere Gratitude an Indication of Right Living," the minister declared we should return thanks for the many blessings we receive and that despite the war and hardships which we are going through there is no better time for thanksgiving.

Receive Many Blessings

Speaking of the imprisonment of Paul Dr. Sharp said the Bible relates how Paul gave thanks when he was met by some of the brethren just before he was thrown into prison. He said that gratitude and condemnation often go hand and hand declaring "That's human life."

"We should not be bothered by the critics who say the present time is more appropriate to fasting than feasting", Dr. Sharp asserted, adding "those of us who are the worst off in the world have more blessings to be thankful for than we can enumerate. We should be thankful for the opportunities of 1942".

Thanksgiving should be associated with thought giving, Dr. Sharp told the Kiwanians, saying that usually the heedless and careless are the thankless and that often when we take without thinking we take without thanking. When we begin to think, we really see how God has given himself for man, he said.

Asserting that the life of a nation is organic and real, just as the life of an individual, the speaker said God deals with nations as he does with individuals and that nations must obey the laws of God the same as individuals.

Must Win War

God is the life of individuals and nations and the length of their days, Dr. Sharp said. America, he declared, was founded on Christian principles and insisted that the way of Christian life must be maintained if America is to continue to grow, prosper and take its proper place among the nations of the world.

In conclusions Dr. Sharp declared "we must win this war, and we will win this war because God is on our side and if God be for us who can be against us".

John C. Shoupe was elected treasurer of the club to serve for the ensuing year. John J. Robinson was elected a couple of weeks ago but resigned due to pressure of his business duties and community activities.

Forrest Brown, president, on behalf of the club expressed best wishes to Carl Reed, a member of the organization, who will leave soon to work in South America.
